

Judge Orders Dean's Classified Documents Into Possession of Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Judge John Sirica today ordered the clerk of his court to take possession of classified documents that had been placed in a safe deposit box by John W. Dean III, the man fired as White House counsel by President Nixon in the Watergate affair.

Following a brief hearing, Sirica ordered that certified copies of the documents be made available to government prosecutors in the Watergate case and to the Senate special committee. Contents of the documents were not disclosed at the hearing, but Dean told Sirica they were of a security classification entitled "top secret handled via commit channels."

Dean said that classification is stricter than top secret.

He was not available for comment after the hearing.

Sirica said the documents would be safe in the possession of the clerk of the U.S. District Court. The chief judge said he did not want to examine the documents at this time.

Dean had filed a motion asking the court to decide what to do with the documents. His attorney, Charles Shafer, said Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had written Dean in January asking him to preserve any documents that might bear on the Watergate matter.

Shafer said Dean, after he was fired April

30, automatically lost the security clearance that enabled him to possess the documents but that in light of Mansfield's request Dean thought he should hold them pending a court decision on their disposition.

He recently placed them in a safe deposit box at a branch of the suburban Alexandria National Bank.

Shafer and Earl J. Silbert, the government's chief prosecutor in the Watergate affair, each said they have not seen the documents. On Capitol Hill, Elliot L. Richardson said he has narrowed to four the number of persons under consideration for appointment as special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

He told newsmen before the start of a third day of questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee on his nomination to be attorney general that it would be Tuesday at the earliest before he is ready to announce his selection.

Richardson declined to name any of the four.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has described the Senate inquiry as a "political inquisition" by a publicity-hungry chairman. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., dismissed the Cabinet's member's remark as an absurdity.

There were these other developments in the spreading Watergate scandal:

—Former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III was said by The Washington Post to have been told by two FBI officials several weeks after the Watergate break-in there were signs of a coverup.

The Post quoted sources as saying the officials urged Gray to alert Nixon but that he refused on grounds it might appear he was seeking presidential guidance.

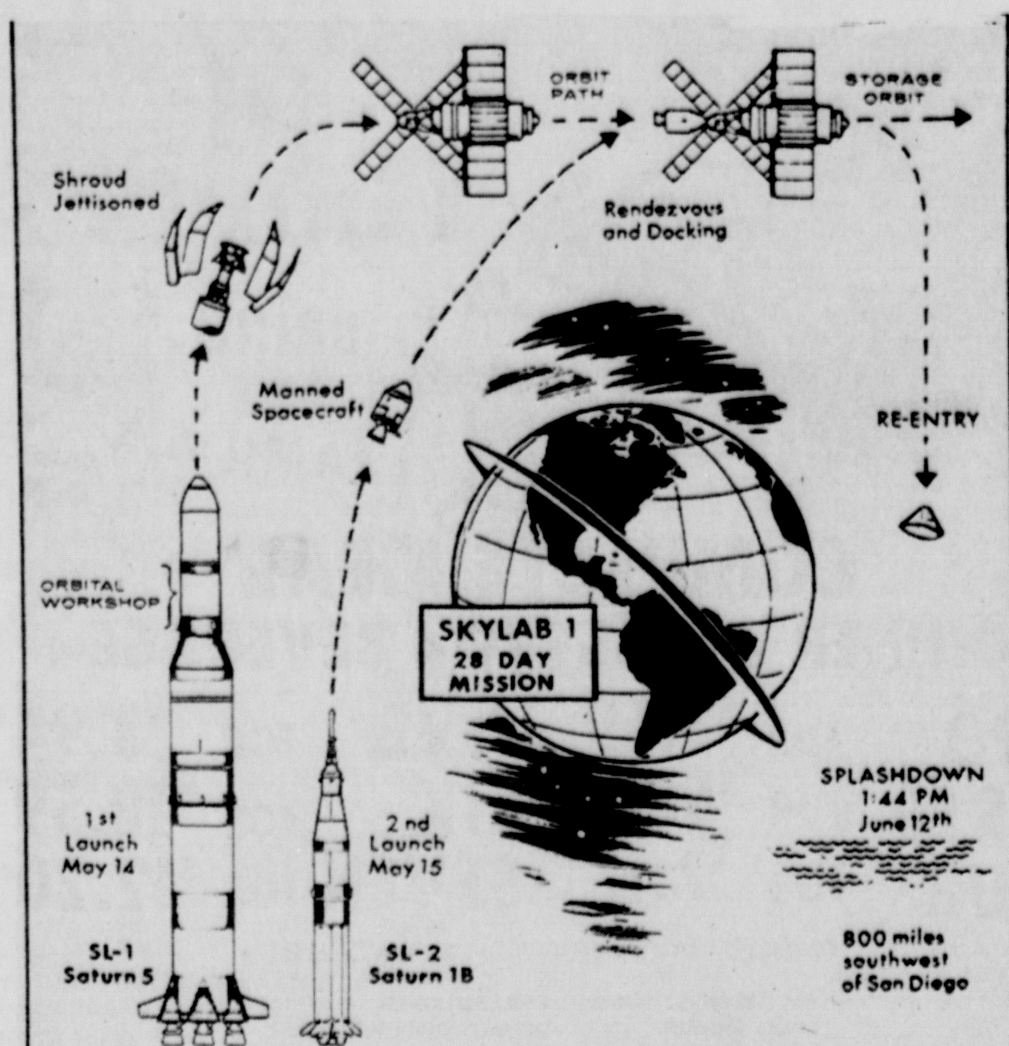

It could not be determined, the Post said, if this occurred before a July 6 telephone call in which Gray reportedly told Nixon he was disturbed that actions by White House aides were confusing the FBI's Watergate investigation.

—One of those aides, John W. Dean III, ousted White House counsel, was reported by Time magazine to have been asked by Nixon two months ago to sign a virtual confession that he was the only White House aide to cover up facts in the Watergate case.

—Dean, who has vowed he will not be made a scapegoat in the case, was quoted in an interview with Newsweek magazine as saying he did not write the report which Nixon said was the basis for his Aug. 29 statement that no aide then in the White House was involved in Watergate.

"Here was the President of the United States reassuring the American people on the basis of a report that didn't exist," Newsweek quoted Dean as saying.

Court Overturns Armed Forces Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today overturned armed forces regulations that deny equal treatment to women members in receiving dependent benefits for their husbands.

In an oddly mixed vote, the high court, 8-1, found in favor of Air Force Lt. Sharon A. Frontiero who sued to gain the same housing and medical allowances for her husband that are granted automatically to the wives of male members of the service.

In other actions today, the court: —Ruled that municipalities may not limit the hours that jets may use airports because a federal law has pre-empted that kind of regulation.

—Granted the government a hearing in its effort to preserve federal law barring conscientious objectors from veterans' benefits for education.

—Upheld the government's right to prosecute industrial polluters under the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899 but said defendants may claim they were misled into polluting because the government did not enforce the law.

—Agreed to review a lower court order allowing railroad passengers to sue in federal court to block the discontinuance of Amtrak passenger trains.

—Denied a review to a Texas junior college trying to keep its men students short-haired.

Armed forces regulations do not make the benefits available for husbands unless they depend on their servicewomen wives for support.

The decision, however, was not the bold affirmation of equal rights for women that some had hoped for. Four Justices, William J. Brennan Jr., William O. Douglas, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall, ranked discrimination based on sex with discrimination based on race or national origin.

"There can be no doubt that our nation has had a long and unfortunate history of sex discrimination," the four said. "Traditionally, such discrimination was rationalized by an attitude of 'romantic paternalism' which, in practical effect, put women not on a pedestal, but in a cage."

As a result of such misplaced notions, "our statute books gradually became laden with gross stereotypical distinctions between the sexes, and, indeed, throughout much of the 19th century the position of women in our society was, in many respects, comparable to that of blacks under the pre-Civil War slave codes," wrote Brennan for the four.

While agreeing with the result of the decision, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Lewis Powell and Harry A. Blackmun could not bring themselves to join the sweeping condemnation of sex discrimination.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Skylab, America's first space station, rocketed away from earth today to serve as a giant "cabin in the sky" for nine astronauts in the next eight months.

The first three-man crew is ready to ride another rocket into space Tuesday to link up with the station, which is as large as a three-bedroom house, for a record 28-day orbital mission.

The Skylab 1 astronauts — Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz — watched from three miles away as a 33-story Saturn 5 rocket thundered skyward to propel the 85-ton laboratory toward orbit.

Their smaller, 22-story Saturn 1B rocket stood on another pad 8,700 feet away, ready for the signal to blast off at 1 p.m. EDT Tuesday if all goes well.

Also observing were the members of the Skylab 2 and 3 crews, each of which is to inhabit the station for 56 days later in the year.

It was the final planned flight for the Saturn 5, the world's largest and most powerful rocket, which was built for the Apollo moon program.

The nine astronauts will conduct extensive medical, scientific, earth resources and space manufacturing experiments to determine how well man can live and work in space for long periods.

What they learn will set guidelines for long duration missions of the future, such as permanent space stations or journeys to other planets.

The information also may have far-reaching consequences in bringing benefits from space to mankind, especially in the survey of earth's hidden natural resources.

Donald K. Slayton, director of flight crew operations, said Sunday that Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz are "fully trained, confident and looking forward to getting the big one off tomorrow and riding the little one on Tuesday." The astronauts Sunday sun-bathed on a Cape Kennedy beach after flying here from Houston, Tex., where they underwent final training.

When they board their orbiting laboratory, they will find "all the comforts of home, reports Conrad, the Skylab 1 commander. He is a veteran of three previous space trips, including a walk on the moon.

No more cramped quarters like the Mercury, Gemini or Apollo capsules. Skylab is as large as a three-bedroom house and has 60 times more volume than Apollo.

Each astronaut will have his own bedroom. There is a kitchen and a pantry packed with a ton of food ranging from filet mignon to ice cream.

There's a shower and a toilet, stereo sets, books, changes of clothing, playing cards, a dart board, exercise machines and a picture window for viewing earth. And every seventh day will be a day of rest.

And the Skylab 1 crew will have a live-in doctor. Kerwin, a physician, will handle the medical experiments which have priority on the first mission. He has a dispensary elaborately equipped to monitor the health of the astronauts.

Upon reaching orbit Skylab will weigh 170,000 pounds. When the astronauts' spaceship hooks up with it, it will weigh a total of 199,750 pounds and will be 118 feet long.

With a total of six wing-like solar panels extended it will be a strange-looking space contraption. The panels convert the sun's rays to electrical energy.

In addition to the ferry vehicle, which is a modified Apollo ship, Skylab has four major sections:

—The 22-foot-diameter orbital workshop, two-stories high, which contains the astronauts' main living and working space. Bedrooms, kitchen, wardroom and dispensary are located on the first floor. Upstairs is a storage and work area containing science equipment, a food freezer, water storage tank and film vaults.

—Forward of the workshop is an airlock module, which serves as part of the passageway between the ferry ship and the workshop and which is the nerve center of the cluster. It contains heat and electrical controls and communications gear. It also will be a pressurization chamber for astronaut space walks.

—Also part of the passage is the multiple docking adapter, where the ferry ship docks, and which contains the controls of

Cease-fire Commission to Probe Charge U.S. Violated Agreement

SAIGON (AP) — The International Commission of Control and Supervision unanimously agreed today to investigate Viet Cong charges that U.S. planes attacked Communist territory in South Vietnam in violation of the cease-fire agreement.

The United States denied the charges in advance of the meeting today of the commission.

Ambassador Michel Gauvin, chairman of the Canadian delegation, said the Viet Cong would have to guarantee the safety of the investigators. He added that as a result of a number of recent incidents commission members were "shy" about going to Viet Cong controlled areas. This was an obvious reference to several incidents in which ICCS helicopters were shot at while flying over territory controlled by the Viet Cong.

The Indonesian delegation proposed that the commission investigate Viet Cong charges that U.S. B52 bombers and F4 and F105 tactical fighter-bombers bombed areas three and four miles inside the South Vietnamese border along a 43-mile stretch of the frontier region with Cambodia.

Gauvin reported the Canadians, Hungarians and Poles unanimously agreed to the investigation.

The delegates also instructed their military committees to investigate the shelling on Sunday night of an ICCS compound at Ben Cat, 25 miles north of Saigon. A commission spokesman said three 105mm artillery shells heavily damaged the main headquarters building but caused no casualties. The South Vietnamese and the Viet Cong both denied the shells came from their guns.

The South Vietnamese also made charges, that 50,000 North Vietnamese troops had moved into the South in the first three months of the cease-fire, along with 400 tanks and 300 artillery pieces.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy, advised of the latest action by the commission, stood by his earlier denial of the Viet Cong charges, adding: "Certainly anything the ICCS wants to do to supervise the cease-fire it should do. We don't have any objection. We certainly welcome any investigation."

Price of Gold Soars Above $100 an Ounce

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold soared above $100 an ounce in European bullion markets today as the U.S. dollar sagged on foreign exchanges.

London dealers said they could see no end in sight for the steady climb in the price of gold as long as general uncertainty is felt about the strength of the American dollar.

The price was fixed by London's five main dealers at mid-afternoon at $102.25 an ounce, a rise of $5.30 since Friday's close.

As gold rose, the dollar sagged in foreign exchanges. Heavy selling in Frankfurt took the rate down to 2.8205 marks, a drop of 1½ pfennigs from Friday.

Gold hit the $100 level shortly after the opening of the markets in both London and Zurich, the world's two biggest bullion markets. That was more than double the cost of the metal a year ago.

Dealers in Zurich said there was an "explosive" character to trading there with unconfirmed rumors of big buying orders coming in from the Middle East.

Both South Africa and the Soviet Union, the two largest producers of gold, are withholding fresh supplies of the metal from the market, adding to the upward pressure on the price.

Gold was traded in Zurich in a range of $99.50-$100.50 briefly, then eased slightly to $99-$100.

The $100 range was reached shortly after the five main dealers had fixed the price at $99.75, an indicative figure to show the level at which the dealers believe the metal will be traded.

The Zurich market was hit by a flood of buying orders from small investors, dealers said. Small operators generally consider gold safer in times of monetary turmoil, and the slump in the dollar last week apparently sent them into bullion.

Meanwhile, the U.S. dollar dropped sharply on foreign exchanges. Dealers said doubt about the stability of the American economy and the credibility of the Nixon administration following the Watergate scandal were undermining the dollar and contributing to the explosion in gold.

Continuing unrest in the Middle East was considered another factor contributing to general uneasiness.

Gold opened in London at $98.375 an ounce, up $1.425 from Friday's close. In Zurich, the opening price was $98. up $1.25.

Watergate Prosecutor Down to Four

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson disclosed today the names of four men he has under final consideration for appointment as special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

The four are two federal judges in the southern district of New York, Harold R. Tyler Jr., and David Peck; Judge William Erickson of the Colorado Supreme Court, and Warren Christopher, a Los Angeles attorney and former Justice Department official.

Richardson gave the names to newsmen after a third day of questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee on his nomination to be attorney general.

Richardson said he hopes to be able to announce his choice Tuesday.

He also told newsmen he would ask the FBI to run security checks on more than one of the finalists but declined to say just how many.

He has invited both the committee and the full Senate to pass on his choice.

Once the special prosecutor is named, the committee plans to call him for questioning. Action on Richardson's nomination may be deferred until after this.

Richardson, now Secretary of Defense and formerly Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was nominated by President Nixon to take over the Justice Department after the resignation of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst.

Kleindienst disqualified himself from any part in the Watergate investigation because of disclosures indicating that persons with whom he was close could be involved.

Ann Landers

She's Terrified By Hubby's Pet

Dear Ann Landers: I've written this letter ten times, but this one is going into the mailbox. I'm terrified.

My husband has a Doberman Pinscher. The dog is nine months old and true to the breed — unpredictable and vicious. Last week that awful hound scared me out of my wits. Tony and I had an argument. It ended up with him slapping my face. The dog was right there — lunging at me. Luckily, I was able to escape to the bathroom and shut the door.

The next day Tony bragged to his friends, actually laughed about how he now has "protection." He is a heavy drinker — in fact, this is what most of our fights are about.

Last night Tony and I were fooling around and wrestling — all in fun. The Doberman came after me again. When her "master" commanded her to lie down she obeyed. I keep having nightmares that one of these days when Tony is drunk, or mad at me for some fool thing, he'll order the dog to tear me to pieces.

Do I have the right to demand that he get rid of that animal? He says he'll never do it. — Scared Stiff

Dear S.S.: Insist on a compromise. Tell Tony that unless he agrees to keep a muzzle on the beast when she is in your presence you will see a lawyer about separate maintenance. If he refuses, I hope you will go ahead and do it. That's no way to live.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a reply to the couple in Florida who thinks sex is responsible for all the evils of the world.

Dear J. and J.: Has it ever occurred to you that sex, like fire, needs to be harnessed if it is going to be used effectively for the purpose for which it was designed?

Fire and sex are two of the most powerful and indispensable forces on earth. Surely we would not condemn fire because some people get burned by it.

It is a pity that you cannot look upon sex as it was meant to be — a holy and complete union with your spouse. You have my heartfelt sympathy. — Happily Married And Close To God In Lorain, Ohio

Dear Happy And Close In Ohio: Your letter contains sound logic and an excellent analogy. My thanks to you for writing and my warm regards to the people in Sweet Lorain.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 27, have never been married, but have been through a lot. A year ago I met Jack, age 35, divorced and the father of five children. The last two years of their marriage Jack's wife was sleeping with her boss. When she asked for a divorce, Jack assumed the boss was going to leave his family and marry her, so he agreed. He felt he had no choice.

I was sure that when Jack was free he would marry me, but I was wrong. Four months after the divorce Jack's wife called him to say things didn't work out and she wants him to come home. So now he tells me they are going to be remarried because he misses his kids and he wants to be back in the good graces of his church. What kind of church will let a rat like that back in? What do I do next? — Damned Fool In Pensacola

Dear D.P.: Probably Catholic — which does not recognize divorce. In the eyes of the church Jack and his wife were never anything but married. As for what you do next: For openers, take a pledge not to get mixed up with any more married men.

Distorted Watergate Picture Is Reported

NORTH HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The man who says he tended the eavesdropping equipment used last year to monitor calls from Democratic National Headquarters says the public is getting a distorted picture of the episode.

"They have an idea that this was a very sophisticated operation, but it wasn't," Alfred C. Baldwin III said in a recent interview.

The 37-year-old Connecticut native said that while the leadership of the surveillance mission had extensive CIA and FBI experience, the job turned out to be a "Katzenjammer Kids" operation. He said he was once an FBI agent for two years.

He recalled that one time during his employment with the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP), he was sent to pose as an anti-administration demonstrator at an Andrews Air Force base gathering in nearby Maryland. He wound up being held by guards for questioning when he was the only "demonstrator" to show up.

He said he also was directed to "infiltrate" a news conference held by antiwar leader Rennie Davis. He returned with a press release, which was used to prepare a confidential report. The release had been available to anyone, he said.

Baldwin said he was assigned to the sensitive bugging job without being checked closely by James W. McCord Jr., the committee's security chief and former CIA agent who hired him.

He said that one night he was watching from a motel across from the Watergate while McCord entered a Democratic office in the building. After the light came on in the office, McCord appeared at the window and waved casually to him before closing the curtains, Baldwin said.

Bond's Administration Draws Little Comment

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Democrats regrouped, had some fun, discussed strategy and earned some money here during the weekend. Also, a lot of possible candidates tested the water.

Today, the state committee still is in debt and a rift is developing among the state's party leaders.

Except for some chiding by state chairman David Donnelly over Gov. Christopher S. Bond's new code of ethics for state employees and his "$19,000 bathroom" in the governor's mansion, the new Republican administration in Jefferson City drew little heat at the annual Jackson Day celebration.

Most of the blasts were aimed at President Nixon and the Committee to Re-Elect the President in connection with the Watergate affair.

Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, in an interview, stated what many Democrats have been saying:

"We are not taking advantage of a poor administration in Jefferson City and a terrible administration in Washington." Hearnes is at odds with other Democratic leaders over rebuilding of the state party, which is $50,000 in debt and holds two of five state offices. Before 1968, Democrats held all five offices.

Hearnes said he planned to resign as a member of the party's executive committee but would remain a national committeeman.

Hearnes disagrees with the committee's hiring of a public relations firm and favors hiring a fulltime executive director.

Some Democrats complained that Sen. Thomas Eagleton, who was shown by a poll last September to be the most popular man in the country, is being relied upon too heavily in state party affairs.

In a news conference, Eagleton said he doesn't have time to exercise much control in local affairs and said it should be left to the executive committee.

A leading Democrat said the dispute with Hearnes centers on arrangements for a July 28 fund-raising dinner in Jefferson City, which for eight years has been Hearnes' birthday dinner (his birthday is July 24) and a principal source of party revenue.

The speaker will be Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, whom Hearnes supported for the presidential nomination at Miami. Eagleton, who supported McGovern, is listed as the master of ceremonies.

The co-hosts will be Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick and state Treasurer James I. Spainhower. Hearnes and Mrs. Hearnes will be given a $250 bowl as special guests.

Among the possible candidates in Springfield were Jack Schramm, who's thinking about running for governor, and basketball player Bill Bradley, who's thinking about running for state auditor.

Schramm, who lost to William Phelps in the lieutenant governor's race, said he will decide definitely in 1974 whether to run but now he's "thinking toward" the governor's race.

In 1974 the Republicans will have to come up with a challenger for Eagleton, who says he is running for re-election.

Some Democratic leaders think Atty. Gen. John Danforth will run against Eagleton, leaving the way open for Bond to run for Sen. Stuart Symington's seat in 1976. Others think Danforth will wait until 1976. Some Democratic leaders think Symington, who will be 72 in June, will run for re-election.

There were reports that Hearnes wants to get in the Senate race but the former governor would not commit himself.

"If Eagleton shows a weakness, Hearnes will jump in," an Eagleton backer said.

Bradley said he had not made up his mind about the auditor's race, or about leaving professional basketball.

But he said he hoped to eventually enter politics in Missouri. The former Rhodes scholar is from Crystal City, Mo.

Bradley attended most functions during the weekend, and was introduced at the Saturday night banquet.

Dwight Fine, 30-year-old former director of the Democratic headquarters in Jefferson City during the 1972 campaign, was not introduced. He is the Democrats' only announced candidate, and is running for state auditor.

Fine has no job and has been campaigning hard, relying on his wife's teaching salary.

Among those at Jackson Day were Congressmen Jerry Litton, Bill Hungate, Richard Ichord and James Symington, and Sen. Stuart Symington, plus Eagleton and Democratic legislative leaders William Cason and Richard Rabbitt.

Among those absent: Edward Dowd, the 1972 Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

It was a smaller, quieter Jackson Day than in the past, but Democratic leaders said they were not disappointed in view of the fact that it is not an election year.

Third of Five Is Convicted In Slaying

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County Circuit Court deliberated more than 20 hours Saturday night before finding Christopher Davis, 20, guilty in the double-murder robbery of Cousin Hugo's tavern on St. Patrick's Day, 1972.

Davis, the third man to be convicted in the incident, was found guilty on two counts of murder, two counts of robbery and one count of assault.

Killed in the robbery were off-duty Crestwood Detective John Gallino and Webster Groves chemist John C. Hagerly. A third customer was shot and wounded and a barmaid was stabbed during the robbery.

Two other men have already been convicted in the case and two more men still face charges.

Couple Not Subject To Death Penalty

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LEXINGTON, Neb. — An Oxnard, Calif., couple accused here of first-degree murder will not be subject to a possible death sentence if they are found guilty of the charge, Dawson County Sheriff John Rohnert told The Democrat-Capital Monday.

Rohnert said a bill creating the death penalty was signed by the Nebraska governor only six hours before Jimmy Ray Anderson, 29, and Terry Anderson, 24, allegedly shot Trooper George Amos west of here on April 20.

The Andersons had operated a photography studio in Sedalia last summer and also face stealing charges in Pettis County Magistrate Court. The two were free on $1,000 bond each on a warrant filed in Pettis County Magistrate Court at the time of the alleged shooting.

Rohnert said that a Nebraska attorney general's ruling issued Monday stated that the death penalty bill had not gone into effect at the time of the alleged shooting. The bill was signed by the governor at 11 a.m. April 20 and the shooting occurred about 5 p.m. that day, the sheriff added.

"We thought at first that the bill might have gone into effect that day, but apparently it takes a day or 24 hours for it to become law," Rohnert said. The sheriff added that the maximum sentence the Andersons could receive is life imprisonment if they are found guilty of the first-degree murder charge.

Rohnert also said Monday that the scheduled May 25th preliminary hearing for the couple probably would be rescheduled soon because one of the attorneys would not be available that day.

The Andersons remain in the Dawson County jail here without bond, Rohnert said.

Reassessment Meeting Set For Wednesday

The Pettis County Court and the Sedalia City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at City Hall to discuss the proposed reassessment of the county.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Monday. Walch said the meeting will be held to explain reassessment and to discuss possible city financing of the project.

Last week the presiding judge said the two governmental bodies would meet to discuss the qualifications of the two appraisal firms who have expressed an interest in the project, but Walch said Monday that such a meeting would be held only if the city agrees to help finance the re-evaluation task.

No formal financing agreement has been reached between the court and the city council, although Mayor Jerry Jones recently expressed an interest in helping finance reassessment of the county.

The two appraisal firms are expected to submit closed bids to the county court by June 1, Walch said. The court has previously announced that the reassessment of the county should begin by July 1.

Body Identified As Missing Man

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — The body of a man floating in the Lake of the Ozarks Sunday has been identified by authorities as that of Leroy Hurt, 21, an employee of a Camdenton supermarket.

Hurt, a native of Meweauqua, Ill., was a companion of Jim Childers, 31, Camdenton, whose body was recovered from the lake April 30. Childers' body was found in a truck that ran off a bridge crossing the Grand Glaize arm of the lake.

Both men were reported to have lived in a Camdenton trailer park. They were originally reported missing April 24.

Symington Reports On CIA-Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said today three highly placed White House staff members tried seriously last year to involve the CIA in covert matters other than the burglary of the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Reporting on secret testimony from four officials of the Central Intelligence Agency, Symington said he was surprised to learn that former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman was "heavily involved."

Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the other two White House aides reported to be involved were John D. Ehrlichman, former chief domestic adviser to President Nixon; and former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

He would not reveal details of the testimony but said new revelations had come from the CIA's deputy director, Army Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters.

Gen. Walters did not join the CIA until last December and Symington said the general testified to episodes involving the three White House aides that have occurred since that time.

"What I learned today that I didn't know before was how deeply involved Haldeman was as well as Ehrlichman and Dean," Symington said.

Diplomat Is Headed For Peking

HONG KONG (AP) — America's first diplomatic representative to Communist China, David K. E. Bruce, crossed the border from Hong Kong today and headed for Peking.

The veteran 75-year-old diplomat told newsmen he considered his new assignment "very intriguing." He also said he did not expect the Watergate scandal or the ineffectiveness of the cease-fire in Vietnam to affect his job in any way.

Two Chinese soldiers checked the passports of Bruce, his wife, and their three companions in the middle of the border bridge over the Shum Chun river. Then a Chinese government official and a member of the China International Travel Service greeted them.

The group lunched at the Shum Chun railroad station, then took the train to Canton. From there they were to fly to Peking.

The Chinese delayed the Canton flight for three hours for the American envoy, his wife, Evangeline, his deputy John Holdridge and his aide Brunson McKinley and his wife.

Before crossing the border, Bruce met there with Charles Freeman, a State Department interpreter returning to Washington after six weeks in Peking. Freeman told Bruce of the American advance team that has been in the Chinese capital for six weeks getting ready for the opening of the U.S. liaison office Bruce will head.

The mission is not expected to be ready to open its permanent office for another three or four weeks. Until then Bruce will work out of an apartment.

A U.S. spokesman said the liaison office will start functioning as soon as Bruce arrives but there will be no formal opening.

It will have a staff of 31, including 10 Foreign Service officers. Although Bruce will have the title of U.S. representative, he will be accorded the full privileges of an ambassador.

the solar observatory equipment and earth resources instruments.

—The telescope mount, the world's first manned solar observatory which contains six telescopes for studying the sun, stars and other celestial objects. It weighs 24,656 pounds.

There is no staircase between the first and second levels of the workshop, because in their weightless world the spacemen will be able to float from point to point. But to help guide them from floor to floor, there is a "fireman's pole" running from top to bottom of the workshop.

Ranging as far North as the U.S.-Canadian border and as far South as the tip of Argentina, Skylab will fly over 75 per cent of the world's surface — more than any other manned spacecraft.

Several nations have asked the astronauts to conduct earth resources experiments as they pass overhead — ranging from mineral surveys, mapping water resources, studying agriculture potential and photographing possible air and water pollution sources.

The huge spacecraft will be visible in areas of the world that it streaks over at dawn and dusk. It will appear as a bright star.

The Skylab 1 astronauts are to return to earth June 12, setting up the laboratory for a visit by the Skylab 2 crew on Aug. 8. The Skylab 3 team is to rocket up to the lab on Nov. 9.

"Whatever the CIA was ordered to do," he said, "was at the direction of the top staff people of the White House. They would have liked to see the CIA involved."

Symington confirmed "there were other matters besides the Ellsberg case in which the White House staff tried to involve the CIA."

He refused under repeated questioning to give details.

Last week, the CIA's former deputy director, Marine Gen. Robert Cushman, testified before three committees of Congress that he agreed in July 1971 to allow the CIA to provide disguises, false identity cards and other equipment to E. Howard Hunt, a former CIA agent who was later convicted in the Watergate break-in and bugging trial.

Cushman, now commandant of the Marine Corps, and CIA Director James R. Schlesinger said the request for CIA help to Hunt—help used in the Ellsberg burglary—was requested by Ehrlichman.

Negotiation Arrangement Talks Open

VIENNA (AP) — The East-West talks to arrange for negotiations on a reduction of armed forces in central Europe opened here today with a nine-minute meeting.

The first gathering dealt only with organizational details such as the seating order. Delegates agreed to meet again Tuesday.

The Russians have for the first time publicly termed the meetings of "great importance" and "great significance," raising hopes they might be resolved to negotiate seriously on the balanced troop reductions desired by the United States.

The 19 nations were still months away at least from getting down to talking about how many of which nation's troops might be pulled back. There were hopes that such substantive negotiations could begin in the fall. But it has taken 14 weeks of wrangling to decide whether Hungary should participate in the conference as a full member or just as an observer.

The United States finally forced Britain and its other allies to yield to the Soviet demand that Hungary get observer status only. The British contended that this in effect removed the 40,000-man Soviet garrison in Hungary from the forces that would be subject to reduction.

The 19 nations now move on to such procedural matters as the agenda and rules of procedure for the future negotiations and a Soviet proposal for the inclusion of neutral nations.

The Vienna talks are a companion to similar exploratory talks in Helsinki, Finland, at which 34 nations are laying the groundwork for a conference on European security. The Russians have been seeking such a conference for several years, while the United States and its allies demanded the negotiations on reduction of forces as their price for participation in the security talks.

Moscow displayed a more sympathetic public attitude to the idea of force cuts during the weekend with a report in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, that Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Polish leaders agreed during Brezhnev's visit to Poland Friday on the "great importance" of the Vienna talks.

Police Probe Three Theft Incidents

Sedalia police are investigating three thefts reported over the weekend.

A break-in at the home of Dr. James Boger, 2803 Skyline Drive, was reported to police at 10:03 a.m. Sunday by Lester Rosenhan, 1620 South Brown.

The incident apparently occurred sometime between 6 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Because Dr. Boger was out of his home at the time the incident was discovered, a complete list of items stolen or missing has not yet been compiled. All dressers and closets in the home, however, were ransacked.

Police say entrance to the house was gained by breaking a basement window glass on the north side of the house.

Bonita Campbell, 229 South Quincy, told police at 7:51 a.m. Sunday that several items were stolen from a garage at her home. The theft, she told police, apparently occurred between 11:30 a.m. Saturday and 7:50 a.m. Sunday.

Items stolen included a bicycle valued at $65 and a matching davenport and chair, value unknown.

Police report entry was apparently gained to the garage by prying a board loose at the edge of the garage doors and reaching in and removing a board used to bar the door from the inside.

City Street Resurfacing Is Under Way

The north roadway on Third Street, from Limit to State Fair Boulevard, will be closed for approximately the next two weeks, City Engineer Robert Cunningham announced Monday.

The street will be closed to permit city crews to remove and replace the present surfacing on the street, Cunningham said.

In order to facilitate traffic during the road closing, Cunningham said the south roadway on Third Street will be temporarily made two-way from Warren Avenue to State Fair Boulevard.

In another announcement, Cunningham said that the city's summer hot-mix resurfacing program got underway Monday morning, with initial work being done on East Third Street between Hancock and Engineer Avenues.

The immediate work schedule calls for hot-mix resurfacing to be performed soon on Sixth Street between Hancock and Engineer Avenues. Following that, work crews will resurface 16th Street between Ingram and Engineer Avenues.

These streets will also be closed while they are being resurfaced, Cunningham said.

"Whether we get all this work accomplished on schedule depends mostly on the weather," Cunningham said. "We hope it helps us out."

Damage Petition Names Chillicothe Man as Defendant

A $16,750 damage suit was filed last week in Pettis County Circuit Court by Debra Lou Durley and her parents, James E. and Dorothea C. Durley, 1812 West Fourth. Alonzo N. Bailey, Chillicothe, is named as defendant.

The suit was filed in connection with a two-vehicle accident at Fourth and Limit March 4.

The petition alleges that Miss Durley sustained injuries when the 1968 Chevrolet she was driving was struck from the rear by a tractor-trailer unit driven by the defendant.

Miss Durley is seeking $10,000 for her alleged injuries. Her parents are asking for $5,000 for her alleged injuries and $1,750 for damages to the auto she was driving.

Senate, House Face No-fault, Reorganization

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Government reorganization faces the House and the Senate will take up a no-fault insurance bill today as the legislature reconvenes.

Most of the House debate on reorganization is expected to occur Tuesday.

Double sessions are expected and since there is a big backlog of bills to be acted upon, there is talk of going to night sessions in the last several weeks of the session.

With five weeks to go, legislators have sent three bills to the governor, two relating to appropriations and the third detailing appropriations measures that department heads must follow. That bill was vetoed.

The session began last Jan. 3. But the major tasks of this legislative session—government reorganization and tax relief—have moved steadily forward through the legislative machinery.

The Senate is waiting to see what kind of reorganization bill the House passes and the House is waiting to see what kind of compromise the Senate agrees to on tax relief.

The House approved a tax measure giving 65-year-olds a state income tax rebate on income to $10,000, but the Senate put a $6,500 ceiling on it.

The first bill introduced in the session, an open meetings bill, has had a difficult time, although a measure that does not require public recording of all votes is before the House. Voice votes would not have to be recorded.

The House committee substitute deletes a section from the Senate bill allowing closed meetings for private discussions, sessions.

Committee action will be light this week. The Senate Public Health Committee will consider Tuesday a House-passed bill to allow hospital personnel to refuse to perform abortions and a House-passed bill to grant state aid to city and county public hospitals.

Aisle Talk Shows Peeve Saleslady

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those women who will stop in a doorway or aisle to chat. I work in a department store and Mrs. Jones will come out of a fitting room and she meets Mrs. Smith in the doorway and there they stay and talk. I come running out of a fitting room to get another dress for my customer and they do step aside and let me pass when I say "Pardon me" but step right back and continue their conversation. The same thing happens at church when two women meet in the aisle, embrace, and I stand waiting and wondering what is happening to my roast in the oven at home. The results are the same as the fitting room at store. If they parked their cars on a street or driveway where they blocked traffic they would get tickets. So, ladies, why not park your bodies off to one side and then chitchat as long as you please. — MRS. N.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Will someone please tell me how to clean and then keep bright the bronze plate on my war veteran husband's grave. It has turned almost white. — ANN

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. T.J.L. could use turpentine to remove the tar from her bed sheets. Moistens spots with turpentine, work it in. After it has softened and disappeared, wash them well. This also works on tar that has been carried in on shoes to make marks on the floor. — EVA

DEAR GIRLS — If the tar stain is old, leave a pad saturated with the turpentine on the spots until they are softened and then wash. Tar stains are very stubborn and sometimes old ones are hopeless. Another recommended remedy is to cover the tar with petroleum jelly which is allowed to remain on the stains until softened, then soak in a cleaning fluid and wash and rinse as usual. — POLLY

Why McGovern deserves a few of our tears

WASHINGTON — Whatever you think of his politics or his personality, you have to feel a little sorry for Sen. George McGovern.

He is a nice guy who finished last.

Rowan

McGovern has been enjoying the notion that hard work and skill won him the Democratic nomination. Now he has to live with increasing and ego-crushing evidence that he got the nomination partly as a gift from Richard Nixon's squad of dirty tricksters.

A top Republican has told Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey that he "never had a chance to win the nomination. We made sure you didn't win the California primary. We kept close tabs on the state of McGovern's finances. Every time he ran low on money we pumped some into his coffers."

The Republican senator was smiling when he said that to Humphrey, so this nice-guy Minnesotan refuses to make an issue of it. But the revelation of a secret $500,000 fund in California, apparently controlled by President Nixon's private attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, raises a real question of the extent to which the Republicans used their excess cash to control the Democratic process of selecting a candidate.

But not only must McGovern bear the pain of being told that he was not really the Democrats' preference; he is told that he was the Nixon choice as the man easiest to beat.

Then, after McGovern got the nomination he was victimized by a campaign of sabotage and espionage that neither he nor his top aides detected until he was buried under the Nixon landslide.

As the Joe McGinniss article in last Sunday's New York Times Magazine makes clear, McGovern wound up bitter and depressed. And with a wife even more bitter, disillusioned, angry at the press.

McGovern feels that American voters never understood him or what he stood for. This may be true, but it is surely the fault of McGovern himself, his less-than-bubbling personality, and of course the key campaigners around him whose ineptitude bordered on the incredible at times.

And, of course, there was that shrewdly sinister campaign by Nixon's people to create public confusion about where McGovern stood on such emotional issues as welfare, busing and the war. Seldom has a candidate stood for so much that is good and decent and still frightened so many voters.

We have seen recently a resurgent manifestation of what the public saw in McGovern and rejected. There is a marshmallow quality about him. He has the right instincts and convictions, but he does not display the hardness required to translate convictions into action programs.

McGinniss quotes McGovern as saying some harsh things about Sen. Thomas Eagleton, the initial running-mate whose failure to level with McGovern about his medical history precipitated a crisis that surely cost McGovern millions of votes.

But when the quotes showed up in hard print, McGovern denied them, accusing McGinniss of manufacturing them. McGovern apologized to Eagleton.

What a pitiful namby-pamby spectacle!

Anyone who knows anything about journalism or politicians can read that New York Times piece and know that McGinniss didn't manufacture those quotes. One might assume a bit of embellishment here and there and still know that the heart and the thrust of those quotes came from McGovern.

No reporter could or would have fabricated the quote about Mrs. McGovern being so "pathological" about the press that "I've got to keep taking her out to dinner and getting her loaded all the time in order to get her mind off it."

McGovern may feel that that comment was personal and by its nature not for publication, but that is different from accusing McGinniss of fabrication.

The simple point is that McGovern ought to have let his rough comments about Eagleton stand. Millions of Americans would have said that he had a right to complain. They would have admired his forthrightness just as much as they now will detest his squeamish if-I-said-that-I-was-misquoted posture.

McGovern still believes passionately that the country lost more than he did when it chose Nixon over him last November. The incredible string of revelations of crime centered in the White House makes it pretty clear that the country got rooked. But McGovern hasn't done or said anything to convince people that he was the better man.

Surely the most crushing thing of all for McGovern must be his own knowledge that, despite all the crookedness, the scandals, the venality unearthed in the administration these last six months, Americans still would probably pick Nixon over him.

A conservative view

Back with pals in Virginia

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — I flew into Dulles this past Saturday, after four days on the steak and potatoes circuit, and drove home to the farm to find one old friend and one new one. Billy the Kid is back, and we have acquired a blonde bundle of fluff named Caterina di Medici, or Katie for short. Also, the new office is coming along.

Kilpatrick

These are not precisely earth-shaking developments, but it may not be necessary to shake the earth every day. A vast deal, to be sure, can be learned from Watergate. Vietnam, and the fighting in Lebanon; this is the raw stuff of history, which remains, just as Gibbon said, little more than a register of the crimes, follies, and misfortunes of mankind. There are other things to be learned from birds and animals and from men who know how to build. And who knows? These other things may count for more.

Billy the Kid is a blue grosbeak. He turns up every May, angry, imperious, and punchy as an old club fighter. His particular pastime is to see his own reflection in a window, whereupon he hurls himself head-first upon the intruder. He does this maybe 200 times in the course of a morning, before he staggers off to Charlie's Bar & Grill to chew on some bird seed and tell the cowbirds he can lick any guy in the house. So much truculence! So much frustration! Poor Billy is mad at himself, and cannot control his hostility.

Katie is something else. She is a collie puppy, nine weeks old, and filled with the innocence of childhood. To watch her frolicking around the yard is to watch discovery in action. Left alone in the herb garden, she chews on mint, then on parsley; she explores a chipmunk hole; she pounds on a heap of dead leaves; she plays games with an acorn.

She wants very much to play with Lorenzo, who towers above her in regal remoteness, but Lorenzo is suffering and will not play. His nose is out of joint, and for a collie, that is a great deal of nose out of joint. For five years he has basked in exclusive love; he has been lord, master, sole owner and proprietor of our hearts. And now, this — this fluff! He flops heavily on the deck, gazing at us with sorrowful eyes, and no amount of loving will cheer him up. It is never easy, one reflects, to understand that love has infinite dimensions, that loving can expand to take in two without diminishing the one.

Lorenzo is still Boss. On Monday he supervised the pouring of some concrete footings; on Tuesday he helped Joseph Calandro, the stone mason, get started on the foundation walls. The preliminaries involved an hour of measuring and surveying and delicate moving of pins. Lorenzo fretted with impatience to get on with the work, but Peter Kramer, who is building the office, would not be hurried. If the job is exactly right now, it should be exactly right three months hence; but if the job begins poorly, it will never be right.

So this dream begins to take shape. The man who writes for a living has this much in common with Peter and Joseph: We live by our tools. Mine are the books and reference files of a curious lifetime, and for the past eight years, half of my tools have been in Washington and half of them here in the mountains. The book that is needed is always somewhere else.

The idea now is to pull them all together. Step by step we have gone from the idea to rough sketches, and then to final plans — to where the desk will go and the filing cabinets will be tucked in. There will be shelves and shelves of books — hundreds of books, thousands of books, books that are comfortable to live with even if they seldom get opened. It is a good thing to dream; it is a better thing to see a dream fulfilled.

In the sum total of human experience, as I say, none of this amounts to much, but it all adds up. The biggest story in the news these days has to do with men who battered themselves senseless in a stupid exercise in vainglorious boldness. They imagined they were attacking political enemies; they destroyed themselves instead. Day in and day out, the news is equally of innocence, and discovery, and wounded love. They say that nothing ever happens in Rappahannock County, but this much I know: It isn't so; a man, if he looks, can find it all right here.

Aged Americans still contribute

By presidential proclamation, May has been designated as Senior Citizens Month in honor of the more than 20 million Americans who, in President Nixon's words, "have six and a half decades or more of life behind them, and rich years of promise still before them."

The theme of this year's observance is "Older Americans in Action." This is appropriate because tens of thousands of older Americans are literally in ACTION, with capital letters, as volunteers in the citizen service corps.

In fact, 30,000 men and women aged 60 and over are in ACTION's programs, according to Michael P. Balzano, director-designate of the agency.

The programs are RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), the Foster Grandparent Program and SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives). In addition, about 800 volunteers 50 and over are active in VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), the Peace Corps and University Year for ACTION.

ACTION'S oldest volunteer is Pearl Williams, who celebrates her 104th birthday May 22. She serves four hours five days a week in the Foster Grandparent Program by caring for two mentally retarded children in a day care center in Compton, Calif.

SCORE is another program offering a variety of part-time volunteer activity. There are 4,700 SCORE volunteers, men and women who have completed their business careers, counseling small businessmen with operation and management problems in their own communities across the nation and in Puerto Rico. Since 1964 more than 200,000 people have been helped by SCORE.

VISTA and the Peace Corps, on the other hand, are fulltime. Each requires a commitment: One year for VISTA, two for the Peace Corps. The latter sends volunteers to 59 countries throughout the world.

Most older people are not mere onlookers in our society, nor are they society's wards, notes the President in his proclamation.

"They remain vital, versatile and highly valued contributors to the quality of American life." (NEA)

"KEEP YER MONEY. I WANT THAT ROAST BEEF SANDWICH."

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Under former Attorney General John Mitchell, the Justice Department held up a law enforcement grant until a consultant resigned who had opposed Mitchell on wiretapping.

As irony would have it, the consultant was none other than Sam Dash, the Georgetown University professor now running the Senate's Watergate probe. Now Dash will be Mitchell's cross-examiner.

There is yet another irony. The study, which Dash helped to prepare, contained a stirring statement by Mitchell against illegal wiretapping. Now Mitchell has been implicated, according to sworn testimony, in the illegal tapping of Democratic party telephones.

This unusual tale of happenstance began in 1969 when the attorneys general for the 50 states were looking for a top consultant to help with a nationwide study of their roles in criminal cases. They selected Dash, a recognized expert in the field.

The Justice Department funded the study with two grants for $68,000 and $159,000. The first 580-page study was issued in February, 1971, with a laudatory endorsement from Mitchell. The study identified Dash as the top consultant.

But not long afterward, Mitchell sought the right to use wiretaps in domestic cases without court approval. Dash denounced Mitchell's stand as an invasion of constitutional rights.

When the state attorneys general sought another $84,000 to continue the study, the funding machinery suddenly broke down. The staff was dissolved except for a single dedicated woman who worked without salary, paying expenses out of her own pocketbook.

Through the grapevine, Kentucky Attorney General John Breckinridge, chairman of the 50-state organization, got word that the pursestrings might possibly be loosened if Dash were dropped. Breckinridge refused to take the hint, but Dash himself broke the deadlock.

Merry-go-round

"The project is too important," he told them. "I don't want to jeopardize it. I'll withdraw."

His name was removed as a paid consultant and, as if by magic, the roadblock was lifted. The $84,000 was granted within weeks. Still another $112,000 grant came through without problems.

Footnote: Before his speech opposing Mitchell's wiretapping plan, Dash's crime institute at Georgetown University received federal grants of $101,000 and $60,000. But after his speech, Dash's group was passed over by the Justice moneybags.

Editor's mail

Nixon knew all about it

While this letter is addressed to you, it is intended to be an opposite opinion to the one held by Mrs. Ethel Harvey (Editor's Mail, Thursday Democrat).

It is MY opinion that The Sedalia Democrat-Capital has been unbiased (you are just reporting the facts). Now, if I may, let me give my opinion on the statements expressed by Mrs. Harvey.

I firmly believe that Mr. Nixon not only was aware of the Watergate escapade, but that it had his approval. One needs only to research his campaign practices in the 1962 gubernatorial race to see that Mr. Nixon has used unethical campaign practices before. I must give Mr. Nixon credit for one thing: He is smart — so smart, that he had to be aware of everything that went on during the campaign. To say that he was too busy trying to solve the world's problems to be involved in a re-election campaign is ridiculous, to say the least.

My next comment is almost certain to WELSHING WATERBUGGERS: President Nixon's aides had hundreds of thousands of dollars in unaccounted cash to spend for break-ins, buggings and burglaries. But the money evidently didn't reach the lower levels.

We have already reported that Michael Stevens, whose Chicago company supplied the Waterbuggers with electronic equipment, never got all his money. Now we've learned they also welshed on their printing bills. H. S. "Hap" Post, who prints stationery and invitations for both political parties, ran off the secret stationery marked "Gemstone" that was used for the wiretap memos.

The Waterbuggers still owe Post some $100 for the "Gemstone" printing.

alienate many readers, but I feel that I must say it. I have no respect for Billy Graham, for one reason. While church leaders throughout the world were denouncing the Vietnamese War as an immoral, senseless waste of humanity, the one religious person who might be able to influence Nixon (Rev. Graham) refused publicly to say anything. To me this is hypocrisy of the worst kind from Rev. Graham. To say that Nixon has HIS prayers doesn't give me much confidence.

Except to end the war on terms that he could have had in 1968, Nixon hasn't accomplished every much. Inflation soars, the fuel crises is upon us, (while Nixon sends fuel to Cambodia), the rich get richer, and the poor get poorer. If those are accomplishments of a "great man," then this country is in worse shape than I thought.

Even after flood waters have receded, there is often sufficient water in the ground surrounding a home to cause basement walls to collapse under the strain if the inside water is removed too soon.

The pressure of water under the basement floor can also cause the floor to crack badly if water inside the basement is removed too soon.

If the outside foundation is surrounded by a tile drain, wait until you are sure the drain is working again before pumping water out of the basement. When it is working, you know the water table has dropped to a safe point.

You may want to wait and let the water in the basement drain itself through a floor drain, if available. It will do this when the water table has subsided below the level of the outside drain.

SMV Emblem

Positioned properly, two to six feet above the ground, point up, in the center of the vehicle, the SMV emblem color and shape are visible at a half mile in daylight. Ohio figures on 708 accidents involving slow moving vehicles in that state's pre-SMV emblem days show 75 per cent of the accidents involved farm equipment, 90 per cent of these accidents occurred during daylight on dry roads and 50 per cent of them were on open, level roadways.

The red reflective borders for nighttime visibility often last for seven or more years. The orange fluorescent centers, for daylight visibility, fade and last an average of only two years.

Planting Tips

To increase chances for top soybean yields, what variety should be planted, how wide should rows be, when should beans be planted and how thickly?

A reply to those questions is offered by Wm. J. Murphy, University of Missouri-Columbia Extension crops specialist. For instance, he says row width tests in Missouri have usually shown a five to seven per cent yield increase for 30-inch rows compared to 38-inch rows.

Late planted beans or those grown under low fertility where plants are small and do not fill in the rows sometimes show a greater percentage increase.

"Thin-line" varieties such as Amsoy and Amsoy 71 also seem to have some added advantage from narrow rows.

It is unlikely that rows much narrower than 30 inches will be practical for many Missouri farmers until better chemical weed control becomes better.

Also, the profitability, if any, of using narrow rows varies among farmers and depends on a number of things like acreage, machinery changes, and costs of herbicides.

Tests show the best planting period is May 1 to June 10 for central Missouri.

Full season varieties have consistently yielded higher than early maturing varieties when planted late. Chemical weed control is highly important on early plantings.

Suggested planting rates are 35 to 45 pounds of seed per acre with 40-inch rows, 45 to 55 pounds for 30-inch rows, 55 to 65 pounds for 20-inch rows and 70 to 75 pounds for 10 inch rows.

Adjust suggested rates for differences in seed size and germination. Increase seeding rates 10 per cent if a rotary hoe is to be used.

Plants usually emerge best when planted one to 1½ inches deep. Plant shallow for earlier plantings or when soil is moist. Plant deeper for later plantings or when soil is dry.

Plant shallow on heavy soils and slightly deeper on light, well drained soils.

For heavy gumbo with a dry seedbed on top and moisture two or more inches deep, the best move is probably to barely cover the seed and hope for rain, except when planting late.

Nitrogen fixing bacteria in the soil are needed for soybean production. To meet the need, seed is inoculated with the bacteria.

It is a good idea to inoculate seed after a three-year time span even though the bacteria remain in the soil several years. The cost of inoculant is low.

Use good quality seed. Certified seed has good quality and guaranteed purity.

Abnormality

was the most recent wet spring slow planting season. Last year 75 per cent of Iowa corn went in the ground after May 15, as did 80 per cent of Indiana, 72 per cent of Minnesota, 65 per cent of Illinois and 90 per cent of the State of Nebraska. These late plantings produced record average per acre yields.

After May 29, 45 per cent of both Iowa and Missouri soybeans were planted for a record of 36 bushel and 28 bushel per acre yield.

D.H.I.

During the month of April Lena and Chancy Houseworth supervised the testing of 836 cows from 16 herds.

The five highest herds for the month were Longan dairy, Clyde Rehmer, Richard Lenz, Kenneth and Gale Lenz and Everett Billings.

In the 10 highest producing cows for the month the Longan dairy had five, Larry McColester two, Richard Lenz, Kenneth and Gale Lenz and Yeater and Rhoads each had one.

Yeater and Hansen had a 10 year old cow which reached lifetime production of 106,920 pounds of milk and 3737 pounds of butterfat.

Alfalfa Weevil

Control of the larvae is justified when 35 per cent of the plant terminals, growing tips or buds, show feeding injury plus the beginning of leaf skeletonizing on a few of the fully extended leaflets in the top third of the plants. Apply sprays of any of the following in 12-15 gallons of water per acre when growth is 8-12 inches in height and increase to 15-20 gallons when growth is rank or dense.

There are several chemicals that will control the alfalfa larvae whose name and soage rates are available in the Extension office. All of these chemicals except one require a certain number of waiting days before cutting. With the increase in temperature and harvest date delayed, it may be necessary to spray once before cutting the alfalfa and another stubble spray. The stubble spray may be applied with liquid fertilizer.

Still Time To Plant New Roses

If you like roses but haven't been able to plant any this spring, there is still time to plant potted roses.

Container or potted roses are the closest thing to "instant roses" — and the easiest kind to transplant into the yard or garden. They have no catching up to do since their roots have become established, and the plant has already started growing.

Potted roses are available in different types of containers. Some may be planted with the rose and do not have to be removed. Others must be removed before planting. Be sure to check with your nurseryman to make sure what type of container you have purchased.

Plant the rose at the proper depth. Many roses are lost in cold climates from too shallow planting. The position of the bud union is critical. This is the point at which the main canes join to the short stem attached to the root system. Normally there is a sharp bend at this point.

If winter temperatures in your area regularly go below -10 degrees, plant the rose so that the bud union is about two inches below ground level. If the temperatures go below 10 degrees, but not lower than -10 degrees, set the bud union about one inch below ground level. If winter temperatures are warmer than 10 degrees, set

Commodity Exchange Authority To Decide Collection Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Exchange Authority is expected to decide in the next month whether grain traders illegally collected millions in tax dollars by rigging prices on the Kansas City commodity market during last summer's U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

The investigation into market fluctuations during the sales follows on the heels of a probe by the Kansas City Board of Trade that absolved its dealers of any wrongdoing.

That report, written by the same group of people that were being investigated, has not been released. Board of Trade refused to make the report public, giving as one of its reasons that the press was not experienced enough in commodity trading to understand it.

The government probe came after wheat prices soared on the Kansas City Board of Trade, forcing the Agriculture Department to raise its subsidy to exporters.

The department originally estimated it would pay out $67 million in export subsidies during the summer. Instead, it paid out $300 million.

The Commodity Exchange Authority has declined to comment on its probe so far, saying only that it was analyzing information forwarded by its Kansas City office.

But CEA administrator Alex Caldwell told a House subcommittee in March that the results of investigations are not forwarded to Washington unless violations are uncovered.

"If the findings are of little consequence," he told an appropriations subcommittee, "the matter will be settled at the regional level."

However, he said manipulation cases have particular characteristics "not susceptible to the use of guidelines."

The General Accounting Office also is investigating the allegations as part of an overall probe into the Russian wheat deal. The results of that investigation are expected to be announced at the end of May or first of June.

Deals on the Kansas City Board of Trade first attracted attention when the American Bakers Association alleged some grain-futures traders were trying to force up the closing price of wheat by placing large purchase orders minutes before the exchange closed.

This tactic, the bakers alleged, qualified exporters for larger government subsidies.

Export subsidies—which were phased out last September—were designed to make American grain competitive with grain from other countries. They were based on the difference between the closing price of wheat on the American commodity market and the price of wheat on the world market.

The subsidies were figured each day and were effective for the following day.

Since the amount of subsidy an exporter received depended on when he asked the Agriculture Department for it—and not on when he actually bought the wheat—some exporters were speculating on whether the subsidy would increase.

They did this by holding their grain and hoping the domestic price of wheat went up, thus causing the government to increase the export subsidy.

Here's the way it worked: Suppose a grain exporter bought 10 million bushels of wheat on the Kansas City Board of Trade on July 1 for $1.80 per bushel.

Wheat, on July 1, was selling on the world market for $1.63 per bushel. Thus, the exporter was qualified for a 17-cent-per-bushel subsidy.

However, instead of applying for his subsidy, the exporter decides to wait — betting, in effect, that the price of domestic wheat goes up.

Let's say the U.S. price of wheat rises 10 cents per bushel and the world price of wheat remains the same. The government raises the export subsidy 10 cents and the exporter, who bought his grain for $1.63 per bushel instead of the $1.73 it is currently selling for, cashes in. Instead of the government giving him 17 cents a bushel subsidy, it now gives him 27 cents.

Because he gambled and won, the exporter has made $1 million, courtesy of the government.

The bakers contend that some traders might not have been gambling — that they were making sure the domestic price rose by placing purchase orders minutes before the exchange closed.

This forced the closing price of wheat higher than it should have been. The government responded to the rise by increasing the subsidy and the market the next day responded to the increased subsidy with another rise in the price of wheat.

Since the bakers were under price controls and could not raise the cost of their product, this spiral cut into their pocket-books and they complained.

Whether because of the Russian grain deal, or, as the bakers contend, illegal market manipulation, last summer was a speculator's dream.

The Agriculture Department, in an effort to expand its share of the world market, had decided to hold the world price of wheat at $1.63 to $1.65 a bushel. This was a simple task since the U.S. was the only country with any grain to sell and thus could name its own price on the world market.

When the extent of the Russian grain purchases became known, the domestic price of wheat soared. Wheat on the Kansas City exchange rose from $1.68 a bushel on July 3 to $2.12 a bushel on Aug. 31 — the day the department began phasing out the export subsidy and allowing wheat to find its own price level on the world market.

Since the domestic price was skyrocketing while the world price held steady, the export subsidy had to increase. It jumped from 5 cents a bushel on July 3 to 47 cents a bushel on Aug. 23.

Thus, anyone who bought wheat on July 3 and delayed applying for his subsidy until Aug. 31 put 42 cents per bushel of clear profit in his pocket. He also made regular profit from his transactions with the foreign country.

Agriculture originally expected to pay out some $67 million in export subsidies. Instead, it paid $500 million.

The Commodity Exchange Authority long has been criticized because it allows such speculations. Some observers also feel its regulations are not tight enough and that the authority does not enforce its rules as strictly as it should.

The General Accounting Office in 1965 severely criticized the CEA. It said the agency was not making enough investigations of the commodities, that it failed to follow up on complaints that it issued, and that it had no way of knowing if the commodity exchanges were enforcing their own rules.

The Agriculture Department's Inspector General also found fault with CEA's enforcement in a 1971 report.

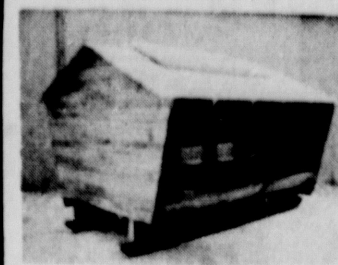

The Inspector General found that CEA conducts only "minimal surveillance" on daily commodity trading, and added that "Groups of brokers can combine their efforts in violation of trading rules to effect daily price fluctuations for their own benefit."

The report said CEA "did not make adequate analyses, inquiries and conclusions on maturing futures when there were strong indications of price manipulation."

And it added the commodity exchanges "did not have sufficiently effective systems to prevent price manipulations, corners or squeezes and were not fully concerned with this responsibility."

Several congressmen have also been critical of the CEA's handling of the $200 billion a year commodity market. Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., said last month that CEA "must be completely reformed or abolished and replaced."

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, has said his small business subcommittee will conduct an investigation into the commodity market and CEA in the near future.

Woodson Hurls 3-Hitter at Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dick Woodson, the Minnesota pitcher, knows what to do now to stop John Mayberry ... concentrate.

Woodson was at his concentrating best Sunday, turning the big Kansas City slugger away with nothing to show for his day at the plate except a walk, and pitched the Twins to a 5-0 victory over the Royals.

Mayberry, who slammed three home runs off of Woodson last season, struck out twice and fled out the other time. In his final time at bat, Mayberry drilled a shot over the right field fence but it was slightly foul.

"I made a mistake on that one but I was lucky," said Woodson, 2-1, who didn't allow a hit for 5 2-3 innings and wound up with a three-hitter. "If you make a mistake, Mayberry can kill you. I know. Ed Kirkpatrick also kills me. I had to super concentrate on those guys."

Woodson ended Kirkpatrick's 18-game hitting streak. "I had rhythm today," Woodson said. "I just felt super even before the game. It was one of those days you have that confidence in yourself. I had a good fast ball all the way to the end, and it was hopping pretty good."

The only hits off Woodson, all singles, came off the bats of Steve Hovley and Amos Otis with two out in the sixth and Paul Schaal, the leadoff batter in the eighth. Woodson struck out seven and walked three.

The Twins got to Steve Busby, 3-4, owner of a non-hitter at Detroit April 27, for a run in the second when Steve Braun walked, went to second when Joe Lis reached first on an error and scored on Danny Thompson's double.

Larry Hise doubled in the third and went home on Tony Oliva's single. Rod Carew hit his second home run of the season off of reliever Mike Jackson in the ninth.

"I thought I pitched pretty well, better than I have in the last couple of games," said Busby. "I just made some mistakes."

Royals Manager Jack McKeon said Busby "was not as sharp as he has been. He pitches better with extra rest, and we'll go to a five-man rotation starting this week to give Busby the extra day. He had seven days rest when he pitched the no-hitter. He has pitched twice in four days, and he didn't have the same kind of stuff."

Big 8 Race Down to OSU, OU

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma State Cowboys close out their season at home Tuesday and Wednesday and then will go into waiting to see who wins the Big Eight Conference baseball crown.

The Cowboys, 13-4, and trailing Oklahoma by one-half game, play the Kansas State Wildcats twice Tuesday and once Wednesday.

Oklahoma, 14-4, goes to Iowa State for one game Wednesday and a doubleheader Thursday.

Both the Cowboys and Sooners rested throughout last week.

Colorado missed a possible tie for the title Friday when the Buffaloes, 13-8, split two games with Iowa State, losing 5-3 and winning 9-5. The Buffs won Saturday's single game from the Cyclones 4-1.

In other Saturday contests, Kansas State beat Kansas in a doubleheader 2-1 and 3-2 but the Jayhawks came back Sunday to defeat the Wildcats 6-4. Nebraska took two games from Friends Saturday in nonconference action 8-5 and 11-2.

Kansas' star Sunday was Bob Ohm, who got two hits, walked once, scored three runs and stole three bases. Bob Allinder, after a shaky afternoon, was the winning pitcher. Larry Brazda got three hits in four times at bat for Kansas.

U.S. Davis Cup Squad Captures Zone Crown

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Davis Cup tennis team will return home from its 4-1 victory over Mexico in the North American Zone final optimistic about its chances to beat Chile—and happy about the prospect of playing on its own courts for the first time in 2 1/2 years.

Erik Van Dillen, 22, of San Mateo, Calif., who with Tom Gorman won the doubles match of the series Saturday against Raul Ramirez and Vicente Zarazua, said he thought the team's possibilities of defeating the South American Zone finalist were "very good."

"We beat them 5-0 last year in their country", Van Dillen said of the 1972 series against Chile.

Mexico's only victory in the series here came when Ramirez downed top-ranked Tom Gorman, 27, of Seattle, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

In the first singles match Friday, Harold Solomon, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., upset No. 1 Mexican Joaquin Loyola-Mayo 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

The United States went on to win the doubles match 7-5, 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, and the two singles matches Sunday. Solomon beat Ramirez 8-6, 7-5, 7-5, and Dick Stockton, 22, of Port Washington, N.Y., downed Luis Baraldi 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 9-6.

Utz Nabs First Flag At Saline Co. Track

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Bill Utz, Sedalia, was a runaway winner here Sunday night in the super Bivins Wins Late Model Feature Race sprint division feature event at Saline County Speedway opened its 1973 season.

Utz headed Russell Hibbard, Slater, and Dean Elliott, California, across the finish line.

Utz and Hibbard won the two super sprint heats.

Jay Lyle of Warrensburg, who competed in all three classes (super, B-modifieds and late model) captured the B-feature, as well as one of the heats. Jim Jenkins, Slater, who won the other B-heat, finished second in the feature.

Columbia's Butch Hendron copped the late model stock car feature, finishing ahead of Tom Frasher, Jefferson City, in the night's closest race on the quarter-mile, dirt track.

The late model heats were won by the one-two finishers in the feature.

The hobby stock class, which was scheduled to be part of the four-division program, was not held. Only one hobby stock signed in at the pit gate.

Rutherford on Pole

200 MPH Lap Eludes First-Week Qualifiers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — There apparently won't be any 200-mile-per-hour laps at Indianapolis Motor Speedway this May. And Johnny Rutherford, a cool-headed Texan who bears the scars of battle, could care less.

The 35-year-old veteran driver from Ft. Worth, Tex., victim of a trail of broken engines and parts at Indianapolis as well in that event.

years, captured the front row pole position for the May 28 500-mile race in first-round qualifying Saturday.

He did it by pushing his Team McLaren car around the 2 1/2-mile oval at a four-lap speed of 198.413 m.p.h. to top Bobby Unser's old 10-mile standard by almost three miles per hour. His fast lap of 199.071 m.p.h. missed the 200 mark by 21 one-hundredths of a second.

A few minutes later, Rutherford was telling newsmen: "It wouldn't hurt my feelings a bit if they slowed these cars down 20 miles an hour, or even more. We're going too fast for close competition."

The first weekend of qualifying for the world's richest auto race—the 1972 payoff exceeded $1 million for the second straight year—saw 30 drivers make the lineup, leaving only three spots to be filled in final runs next Saturday and Sunday.

The 30 qualifiers averaged a sizzling 192.572 m.p.h.—almost nine miles per hour faster than last year—and forecast a minimum speed of almost 190 even to make the field.

The weekend thus was a mixture of blazing speed, so high that even Rutherford was somewhat troubled, and tragedy.

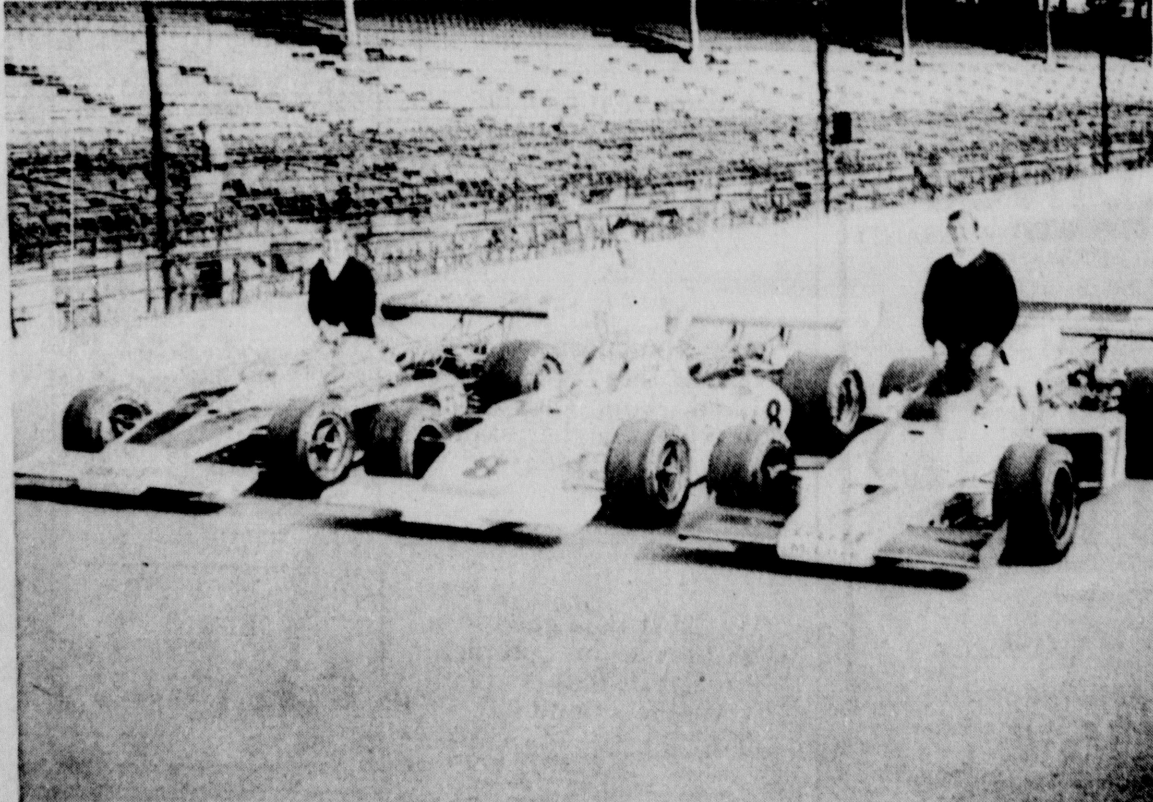

Art Pollard, a 17-year veteran and one of the best liked drivers in racing, was killed in a searing, grinding crash of his Cobre-Eagle during a warmup session that preceded Saturday's initial qualifying runs.

Pollard, who had celebrated his 46th birthday in the garage area exactly a week before his death, was the 35th driver to lose his life at the nation's oldest racing facility.

There was gloom in the garages after Pollard's crash, but it wasn't noticeable on the track as driver after driver went to the line for a shot at the elusive 200 m.p.h. barrier so narrowly missed by Rutherford, a handsome figure of a man who shows burn scars on his face and a withered arm that resulted from a near-fatal crash in a sprint car a few years ago.

Bobby Unser, who had posted one and four lap records of 196.678 and 195.940 to claim the pole position for the 1972 race, was the second best qualifier with a speed of 198.183 m.p.h., good for a start in the middle of the front row.

The other front row position for a three-abreast start went to Mark Donohue, the 1972 winner who qualified one of Roger Penske's McLaren's at 197.412 m.p.h.

Indy 500 Front Row

These cars and drivers will be pacing the field for the 57th running of the Indianapolis 500, May 28. Johnny Rutherford (right) won the pole position Saturday in a record time of 198.413. Bobby Unser, who won the pole last year and was the Indy winner in 1968, is in the middle; he clocked in at 198.183, while the outside front-row slot was won by defending champion Mark Donohue with a time of 197.412. (UPI)

Crumbling Cookie

Kansas City Royals' second baseman Cookie Rojas (1) is upended by Minnesota's Danny Thompson (5) in the fourth inning of Sunday's game in Kansas City, when Thompson was forced at second on a ground ball by George Mitterwald. Mitterwald was safe at first, thanks to this help from Thompson. The Royals were shutout by the Twins, 5-0.

OU Forfeits Top Topic at Meetings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Recently announced football forfeits of the University of Oklahoma are scheduled to be discussed during the spring meetings of the Big Eight Conference opening Tuesday in Manhattan, Kan.

The conference's faculty representatives, athletic directors, business managers, sports information directors and basketball, golf and track coaches will be in attendance.

The Big Eight outdoor track and field championships, with 11 defending champions competing, will be staged on the new track of Kansas State University Friday and Saturday. The golf tournament will be played the same days.

Oklahoma recently announced it had used two ineligible players in some 1972 football games and was forfeiting the contests in which these players participated. The Sooners had won the conference championship.

The faculty representatives, the league's governing body, will review legislative proposals and discuss the effect of freshman eligibility in football and basketball upon both the players and institutions. They also will elect new officers.

The use of three officials, the 30-second clock and the pre-season tournament will be discussed by the basketball coaches. The 30-second clock was used last season on an experimental basis for the National Basketball Rules Committee.

Keith Bromann, faculty representative from the University of Nebraska, will end his one-year term as conference chairman.

Yankee Baseball Crown to Mass.

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — The University of Massachusetts reigns as the Yankee Conference baseball champion.

The Minutemen won the crown on Mike Flanagan's two-hit 6-0 victory over Connecticut Saturday. Massachusetts winds up at Harvard today, with a probable invitation to the NCAA playoffs in sight.

Tom Weiskopf

Double-Bogey 6 Vaults Weiskopf into Top Spot

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "It was," said Tom Weiskopf, "a heck of a way to win a golf tournament."

But he wasn't complaining. "I don't want to be hypocritical. You got to feel happy. But it's a different kind of win."

The tall, blond Ohio strongman plucked the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation title from Bruce Crampton's hip pocket on the 72nd and final hole Sunday.

It was more a gift than theft, actually.

But Weiskopf quoted his old friend and fellow Ohio State alumnus, Jack Nicklaus, in summation:

"A golf tournament is 72 holes. You have to play all of them. Your scores on the first hole is as important as your scores on the last."

And it was the last hole, where Crampton took a double-bogey six, that Weiskopf won the tournament, sitting at the time rather nervously on a folding chair behind the tree.

Weiskopf collected the $30,000 top prize by a stroke, finishing with a one-under-par 69 for 276, which included a par on the last hole, some 10 minutes before Crampton showed up.

Crampton, the leader for three rounds, drifted to a 73 which enabled defending champion Jerry Heard, with a birdie at the 18th, to tie for second at 277. Both earned $13,875.

It pushed Crampton's winnings to $167,543 for the year, still tops on the PGA circuit.

Carbo's 2-Run Single Lifts Cardinals, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Struggling Bernie Carbo was too anxious in the fourth inning for the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, but his patience four innings later paid off.

The mustachioed outfielder, facing Montreal's Bill Stoneman, singled home two runs producing a come-from-behind, 3-2 victory.

Carbo, whose batting mark is a tepid .216, wanted only a fly ball with one out and the bases loaded while the Cards trailed 1-0 in the fourth.

Instead a Stoneman slider caught him off balance and he popped up.

In the eighth, after Joe Torre's single trimmed the Montreal lead to 2-1, the score between the Expos' stylish right-hander and Carbo evened.

Stoneman ran the count to 3-1, then grooved a fast ball the 25-year-old Cardinal grounded cleanly into right field for the winning runs.

"I was fortunate to be ahead on the count," conceded Carbo. "When I went up I was looking for a breaking ball. You say to yourself 'Doggone, I don't want to fail again.'"

"After I'd popped up, Torre came up and told me that at that point of the game you don't think fly ball you think base hit. I should have got a better pitch to hit. I was thinking only fly ball."

The 6-foot-10 Stoneman, a Cardinals nemesis, had restricted his opponents to two Ted Simmons singles until Mike Tyson opened the eighth with a hit.

Tim McCarver pinch-hit for Bob Gibson, 2-4, and walked, but Lou Brock forced Tyson with an attempted sacrifice and Joe Cruz flied out.

Torre followed with a hit off his wrists to score McCarver, and Stoneman, 0-1, walked Simmons to set the stage for Carbo.

The outing was only the second for Stoneman, who was disabled the season's first four weeks because of a sore shoulder.

"I was surprised he didn't take him out," Torre said in reference to a decision by Expos Manager Gene Mauch, "but you can't really second guess him on the hit I got."

Carbo, reflecting on his climb from an anemic .140 batting average after a week's stint on the bench, noted "I think I've learned to be patient."

"You have to be able to think of what you're doing and why you're doing it," he said. "I haven't helped the ball club. It's about time."

NAIA Probations Lifted

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Saturday it has lifted probation on six of its member institutions.

Schwerner Pads

Lead in Standings

Chris Schwerner, Sedalia, the defending champion at E-Z Speedway, cushioned his current lead in the go-cart standings at that track Saturday night, winning the fast feature and capturing the fast heat.

Schwerner won over cross-town driver Larry Sherman in the feature.

Results

Fast Time — Clifford Price, Sedalia, 23.0. Trophy Dash — 1. Sherman, Sedalia; 2. Larry Sherman, Sedalia; 3. Elmer Howe, Kansas City; 4. Dave Crawford, Sedalia; 5. Slow Heat — 1. The NAIA also applied sanctions against 16 other schools. A. O. Duer said nine of the schools used at least one ineligible athlete in basketball last season and would have to forfeit games in which these athletes played.

The nine are Eregis, Colo.; College; Fisk, Chadron, Neb.; State; Tarleton, Tex.; State; Southwest Texas State; Texas

Southern; Southern Oregon; Walsh, Ohio, and Missouri Western.

The other schools are Savannah, Ga.; State; Elizabeth City, N.C.; State; Hampton Institute; Virginia Union; Alabama A&M; Davis & Elkins, and Belmont, Tenn., College.

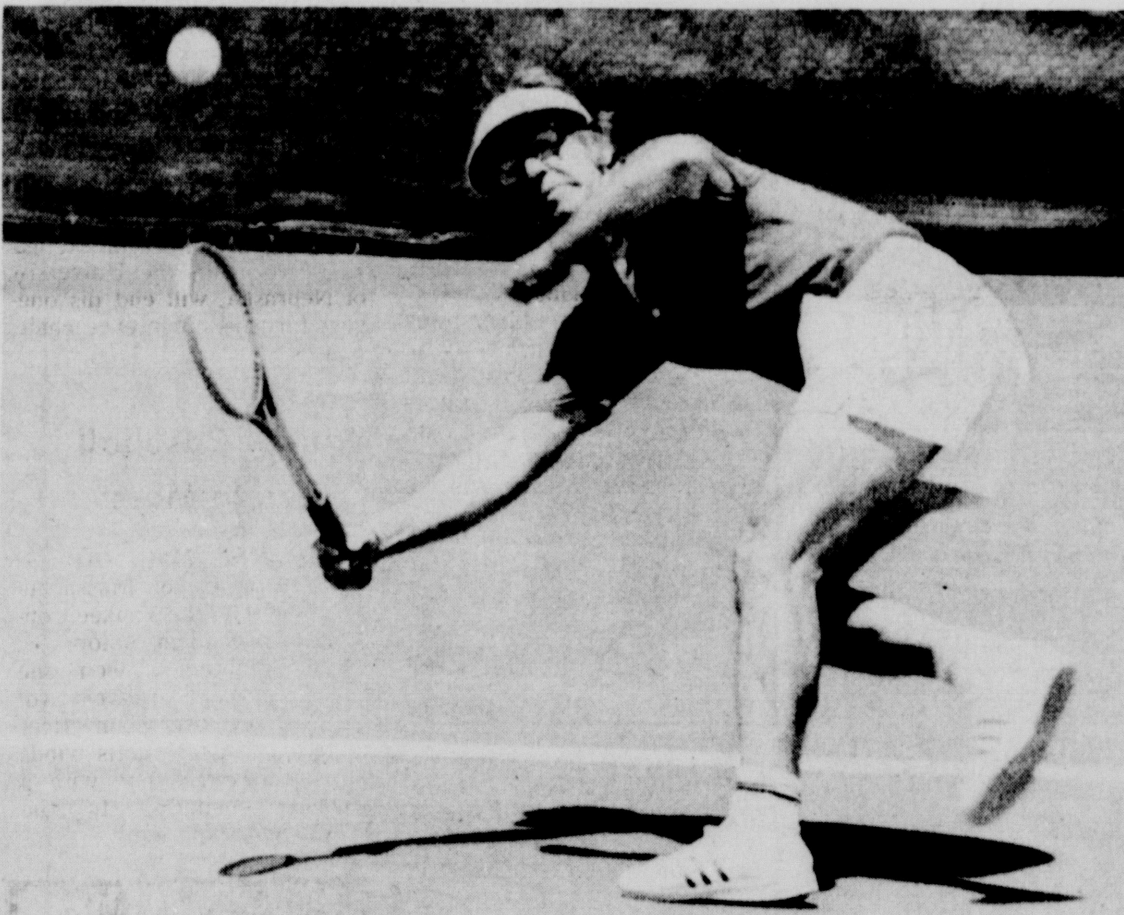

Savannah State, Elizabeth City State and Hampton Institute all used ineligible players in football last season, will have to forfeit the games involved and will be on probation for the 1973 season and ineligible for postseason games.

Virginia Union and Alabama A&M will be on a one-year probation in all sports the coming school year after using ineligible players in basketball and football last season. Davis & Elkins used an ineligible soccer player and forfeited all games and the NAIA area title and vacated the runnerup spot in the national tournament.

Duer said Belmont used an ineligible golf player and had to forfeit matches in which he competed.

BALTIMORE — Laplander, $14.60, urged on by the nation's leading jockey Vincent Bracciale Jr., gained the lead in the last few strides to win the 72nd running of the $59,500 Dixon Handicap at Pimlico Race Course.

Bobby Riggs, 55, lived up to his word Sunday in Ramona, Calif., when he defeated Margaret Court in their highly-publicized challenge match, 6-2, 6-1. Riggs was rated as the best men's tennis player in 1939-41, Mrs. Court is one of the two top women players in the world today.

Favorable Report on 'Sports Card' Betting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The day of betting on baseball, football and basketball with your friendly state government rather than your friendly neighborhood bookie does not appear to be in the offing anytime soon.

But according to an Associated Press survey, cracks are beginning to show in legislative and other barriers that have prevented legal betting on sports other than horse racing, dog racing and jai-alai. The lone exception is Nevada, where anything in the way of gambling goes.

However, opposition elsewhere still is strong.

In Massachusetts, a state that has parimutuel betting on horse and dog racing, the Legislature's Government Regulations Committee has given a favorable report to a bill which would establish a Public Wagering Commission. Such a commission would assume all functions of the present State Lottery Commission and would also allow "sports card" betting similar to the popular but illegal football pool sheets.

The committee has estimated that a "fully developed" sports betting program would net the state $60 million a year on an annual volume of almost $200 million.

However, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and representatives of the National Football League and other pro sports leagues oppose the bill, which now is in the House Ways and Means Committee awaiting action.

In New York, the only state where there is off-track betting on horse racing, there also is a move to legalize betting on all sports. One of the strongest all-sports gambling advocates is Howard Samuels, the head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp.

The Rhode Island Legislature recently failed to pass proposals that would allow a lottery, off-track betting, dog racing and sports-card betting. However, it did pass a bill allowing a referendum on the legalization of jai-alai in Newport. Jai-alai is a game that has parimutuel betting and is popular in several Florida cities.

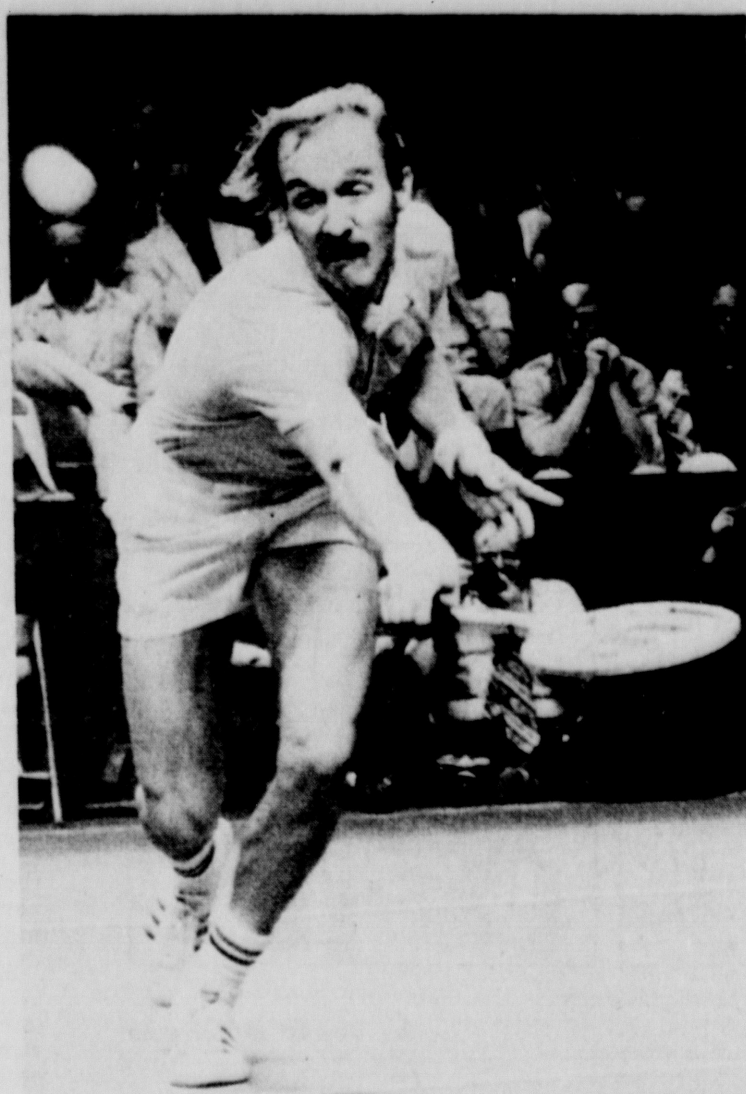

Besides revealing a number of non-racing states seeking racing and pari-mutuel betting and racing states trying to get off-track betting, the survey also revealed:

—Montana. The voters for the first time have given the Legislature the power to enact gambling legislation. In a recent session the Legislature put on the shelf until 1974 10 gaming bills that run the gamut from wide-open gambling to none at all. A series of public hearings is scheduled to try to gauge public sentiment on gambling.

—Wisconsin. Democratic State Sen. Ronald Parys of Milwaukee has authored a proposed constitutional amendment which would eliminate the present ban against the Legislature authorizing betting on sporting events.

Newly-Crowned Boxing Champ Going to Pros

BOSTON (AP) — Marvin Hagler, a 20-year-old southpaw slugger voted the outstanding fighter in the 85th National AAU boxing championships, is going for the money.

"I'm turning pro," Hagler said after winning the 165-pound AAU title Saturday night. "I'll never get to the Olympics. I'm working as a machinist apprentice and am too old."

Hagler won the New England AAU championship last month, qualifying for the nationals. He moved to Brockton, about 20 miles from Boston, from Newark, N.J., three years ago.

"He's a great pro prospect," said veteran matchmaker Sam Silverman in announcing that Hagler will make his pro debut against Don Melosh of White Plains, N.Y., in a four-rounder on a card at Brockton High School next Friday night.

Hagler scored two knockouts and two decisions en route to the title. In the finals, he had the only legitimate knockdown, flooring tough Terry Dobbs of Atlanta and the Marine Corps in winning the crown with a decision.

Other champions crowned were Albert Sandoval, 17, of Los Angeles, 106 pounds; Richard Rozelle, 20, of Columbus, Ohio, 112; Mike Hess, 16, of Albany, Ore., 119; Howard Davis, 17, New York, 125; Aaron Pryor, 16, Cincinnati, 132; Randy Shield, 17, Hollywood, Calif., 139; Dale Grant, 156; Bill Tuttle, 16, Bowie, Md., welterweight; and D.C. Barker, 22, Denver, heavyweight.

Effortless Victory, 6-2, 6-1

Bobby Riggs Lives Up to Prediction

RAMONA, Calif. (AP) — As an early ancestor of Bobby Riggs might have put it, the race is not always to the swift.

"She's better than me in every department," the trail-looking, 55-year-old Riggs said Sunday after seemingly proving just the opposite in his celebrated match with women's tennis champion Margaret Court.

Putting his racket and court wisdom where his mouth was in issuing a challenge to all women players, Riggs scored an effortless 6-2, 6-1 victory and pocketed $10,000, plus another $7,500 from television coverage.

"She has a better serve, a better volley, a better forehand, a better backhand," Riggs said. "But the question is, can you pull that game out when you need it? Can you play your best when the money's on the line?"

"Margaret's a great player and a great sport. But in this kind of contest, you know, battle of the sexes, match of the century, talkathon and all that, she was out of her depth."

Riggs started his "attack" Sunday with a bouquet of roses for his opponent on Mother's Day. "Do you think this will soften her up?" he asked.

Then, against the slashing shots of the 30-year-old Mrs. Court, a rangy Australian at the peak of her career, Riggs, the 1939 Wimbledon champion, offered patty-cake tennis. He hit spinning chops and lobs to the back line, a floating serve that broke like a sidarm curve ball and bounced like a football, a drop shot that seemed to clear the net by mistake and died like a pitch shot on a wet green.

He ran her from one side to the other, toyed with her big serve until she started to miss with it, fed her overheads that she netted or hit out of court, joined with the crowd in applauding her winners, and made the world's best woman player—maybe the best ever—look very much out of her league.

She won only two games on her service and a third when Riggs, playing to the camera and a largely pro-Court crowd of 3,500, nearly missed the ball on an exaggerated spinshot and committed his only doublefault.

Claims WCT Crown

Lady Luck Rides With Stan Smith

DALLAS (AP) — The World Championship of Tennis finals proved three things Sunday: Stan Smith is the No. 1 player, Australian dominance in the sport may be taking a nose-dive, and Arthur Ashe has to be the unluckiest person ever to lose $30,000.

Smith claimed the $50,000 first prize 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 from good friend Ashe, who had to settle for $20,000 and cheers from 8,500 fans in Moody Coliseum, who thought he was robbed in the 10th game of the deciding fourth set.

Ashe double faulted to make the crucial game deuce after a controversy on his first serve. Smith made it his ad on a ball many thought had bounced twice. Then Ashe clubbed a forehand too long on the match winner.

Slow motion replays of the double-bounce controversy showed the ball up when Smith returned the winner.

"I was glad to find out I did hit the ball on the first bounce," Smith said. "It would have been worse to win the match on an incorrect call than to lose the match for $50,000."

Ashe only half-heartedly played the point because "I didn't think he hit the ball on the first bounce. I just hit up a lob and asked the umpire (Mike Blanchard) if it was good. The television replay showed it was."

SWAC Hires

Commissioner

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Southwestern Athletic Conference had its first commissioner Sunday. Andrew Brown of Stanford University was named to the post here Saturday.

Brown, 29, will assume his duties July 1. He is currently administrative assistant to the director of athletics at Stanford.

A conference spokesman said a conference office would be opened, possibly in New Orleans or Houston.

On the fault call, Smith said "I thought the first serve was out. One linesman said he didn't see it and asked help from the other linesman, who called it out."

Once the controversies were ironed out, Smith, who played collegiately at Southern California and has now won $154,100 in his first year on the WCT tour, said "I feel comfortable in saying I might be the No. 1 player in the world now."

Australians Ken Rosewall, who won the first two WCT tournaments, and Rod Laver, twice the runnerup, were both ousted in the semifinals.

Judy Rankin

Overcomes

Course, Sleep

BALTIMORE (AP) — Judy Rankin had to overcome a couple of tough obstacles to post a four-stroke victory in this year's $30,000 Lady Carling Open golf tournament.

Not only did she have to contend with the tricky greens at the municipal Pine Ridge Course while posting an even-par 73 Sunday for a 54-hole total of 215, but there was also the matter of only five hours sleep the night before.

"I really got frustrated with myself because I could have made it an impossible gap if I hadn't three-putted all day," said Mrs. Rankin, who started the final round with a three-stroke lead but needed three putts to get down on three of the first nine holes.

Mrs. Rankin explained that the five hours rest, about half her normal amount for a tournament night, resulted from an illness to her 5-year-old son, Tudy.

Despite her putting problems, Mrs. Rankin was never seriously challenged Sunday.

Veteran Sandra Haynie birdied the 17th and 18th holes to take second place at even par 219.

Oswald: "Defensive discard signals give the defenders a chance to reduce some of declarer's advantage, but they only work if both partners know what they are doing."

Jim: "The basic principle of defensive discarding is that a high card indicates strength and a low card weakness, but there is a most important corollary here. This is that when showing strength with one of equals you should always play the highest."

Oswald: "West opened the jack of hearts and continued after South ducked."

South won and played clubs. East held off until he was able to take dummy's queen with his ace. Then East cashed his last two hearts. South discarded the eight and four of spades and West dropped the 10-spot."

Jim: "East promptly led a spade. South guessed to play the jack and the king became the eighth trick. East was indignant about his partner's strength-showing discard."

Oswald: "East was also 100 per cent wrong. The 10-spot discard showed strength but it also denied the jack so East should simply have led a diamond and forced South to lead spades himself."

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

OLD HABITS NEVER DIE

And it came to pass . . . that the Lord made a covenant with Abraham saying "unto thy seed I have given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates."

—Genesis

By the standards of history, the Jewish people should have become extinct centuries ago, as did other ancient cultures. Yet it was not to be. For 40 centuries, from the 20th, B.C., to the 20th, A.D., they struggled, fought, fell, revived, regressed and advanced, says historian Max Dimont, over four continents and through six civilizations, mastering all odds. The history of the Jews, and of Israel which celebrates this year its 25th anniversary as a sovereign state, is a study of survival.

The study is not yet completed. The wars are not yet over. The instruction of Isaiah, "Peace, peace to him that is far off and to him that is near," has not yet been fulfilled.

The Middle East's destiny, Abba Eban once said, "has profoundly affected the entire human experience. In the heart of that region, at the very center of its geography and history, lives a very small nation called Israel. This nation gave birth to the currents of thought which have fashioned the life of the Mediterranean world and of vast regions beyond."

Indeed, two thirds of the civilized world is already governed by the ideas of Jews, the ideas of Moses, Jesus, Paul, Spinoza, Marx, Freud, Einstein. Can the ideas of these men be somehow linked with the struggle of 40 centuries? What spark has kept a civilization alive?

To find that spark, we must turn to the land between the river of Egypt and the Euphrates, to the land which throughout history has felt the footsteps of foreign invaders marching to war. The Biblical cities of the Middle East were built, it would seem, to be destroyed. And Jerusalem, a city considered holy by three great religions, is symbolic of the devastation. The city now lies perhaps 40 feet above its original elevation.

Between the foundations of modern buildings lies the rubble of centuries. "Jerusalem of gold, of bronze and of light," are the words to a modern Israeli folk song. But Jerusalem is also, and has always been, a city of war, of misery and of death. Just as Jerusalem's history is tragic and heroic, so is the history of the state of Israel, and of the entire Middle East.

Remedies For Plantar Warts

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was very interested in the letters concerning plantar warts in the paper.

For a number of years, I was plagued with them and had every conceivable treatment for them. They were cut out slowly, cut out quickly, burned out with a variety of acids, cauterized, X-rayed (to the tune of $25 a treatment) and even ultrasound was tried. After an extensive surgical removal, which kept me on crutches and in and out of a hospital for three months, they grew back again. I was convinced nothing short of amputation would rid me of them. (I had nightmares about getting plantar warts on my stump!)

My husband was a medical student at the time and finally agreed to "search" for a cure. He found it in "The British Journal of Dermatology, 1963."

It consisted of a paste of 20 per cent linseed oil, 20 per cent podophyllin in a base of lanolin. It was applied to the wart for seven days, covered and kept dry the entire time. After seven days, I removed the "plaster" and left it alone. Three months later I was completely free of warts, and have been to this day — nine years later.

We have since recommended it to others who had other unsuccessful treatments, and it worked for them too.

When I think of all the money, time and pain that was wasted on these other treatments, I shudder. The only problem I have now is a very sensitive scar from one of the surgical excisions.

Please pass this tip on to other "victims" and dermatologists alike. The entire cost of this "miracle cure" was one dollar!

Here's hoping everyone can be "plantar wart" free — and painlessly so!

Dear Reader — You won't be surprised to know that I received a long list of cures for warts, and I am glad to have yours. It is included here so various readers troubled with this problem can try it or ask their doctor if he wants to try it.

I was interested to know that many of the cures suggested included covering up the wart in some type of seal over a length of time. One of the suggested cures was to cover the wart with colodion for 10 days. Of course there were numerous suggestions about the use of liquid nitrogen which some doctors use with success.

While some of the treatments that have been suggested are very good, I must caution that some apparent cures are the result of spontaneous disappearance of warts which can, and sometimes does, occur.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The complicated procedures doctors use to remove plantar warts is a disgrace. My daughter had these warts all over her feet and they were removed several times by our doctor but always came back. Each removal left big scars. Then she got several on her face.

I read about a mixture that sounds ridiculous but we tried it and it works — just a few drops of spirits of camphor mixed with ordinary baking soda. I don't know why, but after three days she had no more warts. Please put this in your newspaper articles and let your readers decide for themselves. Thank you.

Dear Reader — Okay. But if it's a wart on the face I'd be happier if it was tried under a doctor's supervision, if at all.

Classical Ragtime Presented

By LARRY MELTON

The classical ragtime music of Scott Joplin was masterfully presented in a lecture-recital delivered by Tom Gordon on Sunday afternoon to open Fine Arts Week at State Fair Community College.

A full student union heard Gordon relate a brief biography of Joplin, emphasizing the role Sedalia and this region played in the creation of classical ragtime.

Gordon described the Mississippi Valley as a kind of folk conservatory through which the talented Joplin traveled during his early years. Here, he heard the musical idioms that he later incorporated into his own music, which the spaker described as uniquely American.

Illustrating his lecture with enlargements of Joplin's sheet music, Gordon reviewed the composer's achievements from the publication of the "Maple Leaf Rag" here in Sedalia to his more intricate pieces written just before his death in 1917.

Selected examples of Joplin's compositions were played by Gordon in flawless classically revived style. The selections "Gladiolus Rag" and "Heliotrope Bouquet" were especially beautiful, interpreted with feeling as slow pieces, reminiscent of a classical nocturn.

Gordon, an instructor of music at SFCC, clearly demonstrated the musical genius of Scott Joplin and the elements that make his compositions to much appreciated today. He also demonstrated his own piano expertise and provided an appropriate introduction to Fine Arts Week at the college.

Rivers Dropping To Normal Levels

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Mississippi and Missouri passed their fourth crests of the year over the weekend and began dropping toward normal levels.

The Mississippi reached 18.1 feet on Saturday, 8.1 feet over flood stage, and began to fall. The National Weather Service said the river would be down to the 35.5 foot mark by Wednesday — but warned that the river probably would not drop below flood stage until late in May.

The Missouri River also crested Saturday at St. Charles. The crest there was at 31.5 feet, 6.5 feet over flood stage. Officials said the Missouri should be below 29 feet by Wednesday.

Flooding Disaster For Many

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The recent flooding of rich cropland along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers has spelled disaster for many Missouri farmers.

Farmers in areas where the rivers have receded estimate it will be several weeks before the land dries out enough to be worked — but hundreds of thousands of acres are still under water and will not be available for planting for a month or more.

"We're in bad shape. We are hoping for the water to recede and the land to dry so we can plant soybeans — about the only crop we can still plant," said George Roberts, executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Mississippi County, about 20 miles south of Cape Girardeau.

"If it stays clear, we might get a couple of thousand acres of cotton in before the cutoff date of May 18. We usually plant 18,000 acres, but most farmers won't get any cotton in," Roberts said.

James Boillot, Missouri agricultural commissioner, said 1,844,000 acres of farm land were now — or had been — under water. He said that represents about 18 per cent of all producing cropland in the state last year.

Wayne Mitchell, district ASCS director for the 12 southeastern Missouri counties, called the situation "about as bad as it can get," and said the "no more than 25 per cent of the cotton will be planted this spring" in the eight-county cotton growing section of Missouri.

Mitchell said small farmers were hurt the most by the floods.

Melvin Evans, who owns a 560-acre farm near Taylor, north of Hannibal, said his entire farm was still under three to four feet of water and would be until the water goes down far enough so that submerged pumps could be repaired and put into operation. "That will take about two weeks. Then we will have to wait another two weeks for the soil to dry out," Evans said.

"We'll have to have a miracle to get any crops planted at all this year," Evans said. "I've lived here for 22 years and I've never seen anything like this."

The owner of a 4,200-acre farm in southeastern Missouri, A. L. Story Jr., said "It's too late for corn already. It's going to be too late for cotton by the time we are able to plant. We'll probably have to go to soybeans." Story said he had 700 acres planted in wheat, but that 300 of those acres were under water "and the rest won't amount to anything because of the heavy rain."

Howard Waters, Midwest regional director of the ASCS, said one of the major problems was the transportation of crops. "The river has completely stopped barge traffic."

Louis Harris Survey

'Middlemen' Blamed By Public

By LOUIS HARRIS

In their deep frustration over soaring food prices, the American people do not blame supermarket operators or farmers so much as food middlemen and processors. Sixty-five per cent believe the latter are the "major cause in the rise of food prices."

This feeling on the part of the public is ironic, for most of the public would be hard put to name precisely which "middlemen" they have in mind. But firmly planted in the minds of most Americans is the notion that neither their local grocer nor the farmer who grows their food is making excessive profits on his products. The "fat" in food prices, people feel, is put there by the meat packers, and other agri-business concerns, whose job it is to take the output off the farms, process and pack it, and distribute it to the food-store operators who, in turn, sell it to the public.

A nationwide cross section of 1,537 households was asked between April 18 and 23: "Do you feel that the following is a major cause of the rise in food prices, a minor cause, or hardly a cause at all?"

	Major Cause	Minor Cause	Hardly	Not
Food middleman, processors	65	21	6	8
People wanting to buy more	34	32	27	7
Farmers	20	40	35	5
Food-store operators	20	43	31	6

It is interesting that no more than 34 per cent of the public agrees with the claims of Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz and others that the principal reason for the sharp rises in food prices can be attributed to unprecedented growth in demand among American consumers. This accelerated demand has supposedly created a gap between demand and supply, leading to inevitably higher food prices. Most Americans, however, see increased consumer consumption of food as only a secondary cause for the escalation of prices at the supermarket.

Price increases imposed by "middlemen" are also seen as one of the principal causes for the continuing inflation which most Americans feel is more serious than ever. Federal spending, however, receives top billing as the villain of the inflation spiral, followed by the high costs of construction and high food prices.

The cross section was asked: "Do you feel that one of the following is a major cause of inflation, a minor cause, or hardly a cause at all?"

	April '73	Dec. '72	Oct. '72	June '72
	%	%	%	%
Federal spending	68	74	72	76
Building costs	66	X	X	X
Food prices	65	X	X	X
Business raising prices	64	65	66	64
Middlemen price increases	60	56	59	54
Union wage demands	57	49	59	59
Business profits	56	59	60	56
The Vietnam war	49	53	56	55
Spending by the public	35	33	32	34
Farm prices	25	17	22	17

X — Not asked

Again, it is evident that the public does not lay blame for inflation generally at the doorstep of the farmers nor upon spending consumers. Instead, the major culprit is believed to be the federal government in its spending policies, with majorities also blaming both business and labor for excessive profits and wage demands. The Vietnam war, long seen as one of the chief reasons for the inflation, clearing is beginning to taper off as the target of public wrath.

The public is obviously in a mood to find some scapegoat for the current press of high prices. Although 62 per cent of the nation's families participated in the recent meat boycott, 71 per cent agree that the protest did not have much impact in bringing down food prices. Given this abiding sense of frustration, most people have favored some form of governmental action not only to curb prices, but also to bring to account some of the institutions in the economy they believe have been responsible for the rise in the cost of living.

Added to his woes over the Watergate issue, President Nixon has been receiving almost uniformly negative marks on his handling of the inflation issue. By 83-15 per cent, a sizable majority rated him negatively in April on "keeping down the cost of living," by 69-25 per cent, he was rated negatively for imposing a ceiling on meat prices; and, by 67-28 per cent, he received negative marks for his "handling of federal spending."

When the public was asked how it would rate Nixon "on keeping the economy healthy," he had fallen back to his low levels of 1971. Although not at its all-time nadir, Nixon's standing on economic issues is close to it. The public is in a mean and angry mood about inflation and the political repercussions had begun to mount before the President's recent moves to tighten somewhat the regulation of price increases.

Request for Funds Waiting on Report

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — A request for emergency funds for storm-ravaged Joplin, Mo., will not be submitted until a report is completed by the Office of Emergency Preparedness, Gov. Christopher S. Bond said Sunday.

Bond made the comment while here to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from William Jewell College.

Bond inspected the storm damage Saturday. Three persons were killed and at least 99 injured in Friday's storm.

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet
During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right — 20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important) while reducing. You keep "full" — no starvation — because the diet is designed that way. It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home.
This is honestly a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.
Send only $2.00 ($2.25 for Rush Service)—Cash is O.K.—to: Jorma Products Co., P.O. Box 2176, Leucadia, CA 92024. Don't order unless you expect to lose 20 pounds in two weeks! Because that's what the Ski Team Diet will do!

Son Finds Father Dead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police are seeking clues in the death of a 50-year-old railroad employee who was found bound hand and foot in his apartment Sunday.

The victim was identified as James Edward Main, Jr. His body was found Sunday afternoon by a son, James E. Main, III.

The younger Main told police he had last seen his father about 2 a.m. Sunday. He said when he returned to the apartment Sunday afternoon he found the door locked, looked in a window and saw his father tied up on the floor.

Police said the exact cause of death had not been determined late last night.

They said his hands had been tied behind his back with electrical cord. His ankles were bound with cord and the two cords were tied together with a sheet. A cord was wrapped around Main's neck and a blanket wrapped around his head and neck, detectives said.

Police said several items, which they refused to identify, were missing from the apartment, which was in disarray.

Detectives said they assumed robbery to be the motive.
